MINTERS CHAPEL METHODIST CHURCH
Tarrant County, Texas

Minters Chapel Methodist Church was founded in 1845 by Rev. Green Minter, a circuit rider and early settler in Tarrant and Dallas counties. He was aided by Rev. Nathan Hudgins, a Methodist minister of Birdville, in preaching to persons of all faiths worshipping together in the first quaint building fashioned of hand-hewn logs. This building also served the community as a school and meeting place.

The church and its adjoining cemetery, which has continued to be maintained since the founding of the congregation, occupy land donated by James Cate, who with his wife was among the charter members of the congregation.

GLEANINGS

By Mildred Dulaney

Herb Saxton is one of the men who locates missing heirs for estates. An article about him and some of his experiences appeared in True Magazine for December, 1964, an article by Walter Wagner entitled "He Finds Fortunes in Your Future." The following is quoted from the article:

"Saxton admits that if the majority of Americans made valid wills and constructed family trees he'd be out of work. It seems unlikely, however, that he need worry, since a staggering 87 percent of Americans die without leaving a will, and a near-unanimous 99.9 percent do not have a family tree written out.

"Saxton says candidly, 'In all my experience, I have never found a single American who could tell me who he is. The average man doesn't know the maiden name of his mother, much less the maiden name of his grandmother, or when and where his parents were married.

"Most people know more about the pedigrees of their dogs than about their own origins. One of the most important things an individual can do is keep tabs on the location of all living relatives and build a family tree to provide a clear record of births, marriages and deaths of ancestors.

"That's even more important than leaving a valid will. All a will does is dispose of earthly possessions. But a family tree protects the individual's right to inherit during his lifetime and also protects the rights of next of kin."

$766,881.51 is waiting for the following people, for whom Mr. Saxton is searching. The city given is the last known address.

HISTORY OF MOUNT GILEAD BAPTIST CHURCH

Editor's Note: The following history of Mount Gilead Baptist Church was prepared from the Home-Coming Annual of the church published in 1959.

Mount Gilead Baptist Church was established over 100 years ago and has the distinction of being the first church organized in Tarrant County, the county having been created on December 20, 1849, and organized on August 5, 1850.

The parent church of Mt. Gilead Baptist Church was the Lonesome Dove Baptist Church which had been established in February 1846 in Denton County (then Fannin). As other settlers moved in, the more distant members of Lonesome Dove were dismissed to form churches of their own. On the "third Saturday of June 1850, Lonesome Dove dismissed several members and granted them the privilege of constituting a church on the head of Bear Creek." This resulted in the organization of Mt. Gilead Church by John A. Freeman, David Myers, and J. Fyke on July 13, 1850, in the private residence of Daniel Barcroft. The church built its first place of worship in March or April of 1851.

There were eight charter members listed: John A. Freeman, Daniel Barcroft, Ireneus Neace and wife, Lucinda Neace, Paemelia Allen, Abby or Abbie Dunham, and two slaves, Ambrose and Carolin Collard. The first deacons were Brother John A. Freeman, and Brother Daniel Barcroft, the former was the first pastor of the church. He served until March 1857 when he moved to California. The membership had grown to seventy-five in the six years he was pastor.

In 1858, Brother Mug was the pastor; Brother Dobkins came as pastor in 1859. It was during this year that a band of Indians came through on a raid and burned the little log church, the meeting place of the Mt. Gilead Congregation. Brother Dobkins left the pastorate in 1860. As a result of the oncoming Civil War political strife over the State Rights question, the spiritual growth and development of the church was greatly retarded. By the end of the war, the church had only seventeen members as shown in the Minutes of the West Fork Association.

The records of 1868 show a renewed interest with the building of a new house in which to worship. Pastors serving from 1867 to 1879 were Brother W. W. Mitchell, Brother Jack Hogan, Brother A. J. Halford, and Brother J. Q. Burnett. At the time of Brother Burnett's resignation in 1879, the church had 200 members, a remarkable growth from the seventeen members in 1865.

Then there came a period when the church was pastorless, "a great trouble crept in" and the church was disrupted. Many members withdrew; churches were established elsewhere.

Beginning in 1886, Mt. Gilead Baptist Church became a member of the Tarrant County Baptist Association. The Minutes of that organization show that through the years problems still arose, but were settled amicably. Growth in membership necessitated a new building, or rather a face-lifting, and then an educational building in 1953. In 1959 a recreational building was added.

MT. GILEAD BAPTIST CHURCH, Cont'd.

Mt. Gilead Baptist Church has been "a place of refuge for the sinsick and the troubled and the tired." It served as the only schoolhouse in that part of the county until about 1910. "Many, many pioneers of the olden days and now pioneers of the jet-age look to this church as a provider of spiritual food."

* Anson Jones, son of Solomon and Sarah Strong Jones, was born in Mass. on Jan. 20, 1798. He qualified for an M.D. degree at Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia. In 1832 he renounced medicine. In October 1833 Jones drifted to Texas where after much persuasion on the part of the citizens of Brazoria, he resumed his practice. He served as surgeon in the San Jacinto campaign. Sam Houston, president of the Republic of Texas, appointed him Minister to the United States in June, 1838. He was recalled in May 1839 by President Mirabeau B. Lamar. On May 17, 1840 he married Mrs. Mary (Smith) McCrorey. He resumed his practice in Brazoria, and continued his interest in the affairs of the Republic of Texas. He was elected President of Texas in September, 1844 and took office on December 9. His days as president were turbulent. On February 19, 1846, at the ceremony setting up the government of Texas as a state of the Union, he declared "The Republic of Texas is no more." He died in Houston on Jan. 9, 1858.

MRS. ELEANOR RUSSELL

Death of the Widow of the Honored
Pioneer of Texas

This venerable and loved lady, one of the early mothers of Texas, died at 6 o'clock a.m. March 22, at the residence of her son, Hon. Stilwell H. Russell, at 501 South Harwood Street, Dallas. Bound to her by ties as holy as ever joined families wholly disconnected in blood, I have been requested to write her obituary and do so with feelings of sad reverence, having emotions akin to worship. Brevity is indispensable.

Eleanor Heady was born in Taylorsville, Spencer County, Ky., June 15, 1813. For twenty-eight years her father was representative in the Kentucky legislature. In 1831 she arrived in Brazoria, Texas. Her future husband, Capt. William J. Russell, from North Carolina, was then captain of a schooner and a citizen of Brazoria. That grandest of all the early merchants of Texas, Robert Mills, was then in prosperous business in Brazoria. He had known this young lady in Kentucky childhood and was a devoted friend to Capt. Russell. He introduced them and induced Capt. Russell to seek her hand in marriage. On the 12th day of March 1832, William J. Russell and Eleanor Heady were united as husband and wife. Soon afterwards the strife between the colonists and the Mexican authorities began. It started at Anahuac, at the mouth of the Trinity. The people became aroused. Among other volunteers from the surrounding country there went from Brazoria Capts John Austin, Wm. J. Russell and Henry S. Brown, the father of John Henry Brown of Dallas. Before their departure, Mrs. Russell molded for her husband a quantity of bullets, one of which Capt. Russell fired at a Mexican soldier on picket duty--the first bullet fired by an American colonist against the soldiery of Mexico. A few days later, June 26, 1832, the famed battle of Velasco was fought, in which the commanders were Capts. John Austin, William J. Russell and Henry S. Brown. They won a remarkable victory and captured the fort and garrison. The ladies of Brazoria, including Mrs. Russell, Mrs. Wm. H. Wharton, Mrs. Josiah H. Bell and others gave the victors a warm reception.

Some years later Capt. and Mrs. Russell removed to Fayette County where he was long chief justice. After the war, they removed to Austin and some years later to San Antonio, where Capt. died in 1883. They reared a family of several sons and daughters in the precepts of the Methodist Church. Wm. H., their elder son was appointed in 1860 by Gov. Sam Houston as commissioner to run the boundary between Texas and the United States and afterwards district judge of the Rio Grande District. L. D., another son, recently of Belton and now of Arizona, is a distinguished lawyer, and Stilwell H. at whose house the mother died in Dallas, has been sheriff, United States marshal and member of the constitutional convention in 1875.

Mrs. Russell for fifty years has been a devoted christian woman, abounding in acts of charity, and loved by all who knew her, among whom the writer of this humble tribute ranks as one--doubly so because Mrs. Russell, and her husband were friends of his father until his death in Brazoria in 1834.

She will be buried this day at 2 p.m. from the family residence, 501 North Harwood Street, thence to the Methodist church and the Odd Fellows Cemetery. May I not add without infringing the rules of propriety that it was my privilege in the last hours of her life to kiss and so far as sinful man can to bless this blessed old mother of early Texas. She sleeps the sleep of the just and pure, a declaration that will be endorsed by James H. Bell, Mardella A. Munson, A. P. McCormick, Guy M. Bryan and a brigade of men whp knew her in their youth and her early married life.

GLEANINGS

By Mildred Dulaney

Two recent articles in the Dallas Morning News are of interest to genealogists. One is from the column, "East Texas Note Book" by Fred Pass in the paper of October 13, 1964 and concerns a tombstone in the Gum Springs Cemetery, near Longview. One side of the stone says: "Value of Our Estate $44,378.34." The stone is that of William A. and Nancy Miles. The explanation given for this unusual inscription is that Mr. Miles lost an arm during the Civil War. Despite this handicap, he was able to work hard and accrue this sizeable estate. To encourage others who may be physically handicapped, he had his wealth declared for all to see.

The other article is from the Dallas News of November 6, 1964. Larry Grove in his column, "Poor Larry's Almanack," declares that King Edward the Fifth, back in 1483, really started something when he decreed that everyone must choose a surname. Four types of names followed this decree—those based on personal appearance, those based on the father's name, those based on profession, and those based on the place of residence. Mr. Grove also states that a booklet called "Tracing Your Ancestors in Britain" may be obtained free by writing the British Travel Association, 612 S. Flower Street, Los Angeles, California 90017.

Want to go to Europe on a trip especially designed for genealogists? Such a trip is being planned with departure date from New York April 20th, and return to New York on June 22nd. Three weeks are scheduled for England and the group will visit a number of countries. Various personal deviations from the plan can be arranged. For further information write Mrs. Jerome A. Esker, Editor, Mississippi Genealogical Exchange, 314 Louisville Street, Starkville, Mississippi.

The Pennsylvania Traveler is a new magazine which gives records, family history and data relating to that state. Volume 1, number 1 bears the date of November 1964. The contents of this issue include: Fighting Quakers, Nine Revolutionary War Soldiers of Erie, Nathan Roberts—Revolutionary War record, Roster of Company H, 53rd Regiment, Pa. Volunteers (Civil War), Birth records of Salem Reformed Church 1787-1808, Christian Bechtel, Ironmaster, List of foreigners imported in "Queen Elizabeth," George Reiter (Riter), The Village Crier which is a column of books, people and events, John Phillips the First, the Haddocks of Ireland and Bucks County. This magazine is a quarterly issued in November, February, May and August. Subscription price is $6.00 per year and the address is 3374 N.W. 35th Street, Miami, Florida 33142.

Did you know that in 1930 the town of Mingus, Texas in Palo Pinto County had a population of 1400, but the population was composed of over 30 different nationalities? The Federal Writers Project for Fort Worth and Tarrant County so states.

THE TREASURER-EDITOR LOOKS BACK

"1800 Census of Delaware"

Yes -- 1964 was a good year for the Fort Worth Genealogical Society.

"The 1850 Census of Wetzel Co., Va. now W. Va."

The Society has no financial worries because of its loyal members who continue to renew their regular or sustaining memberships and the new members received. One hundred new members in the past year is not a bad record. It is superb.

Publications of the Hist. Soc. of Washington Co., Va. Nos. 1-8

"Ceded Lands - Records of Early Settlers of Wilkes Co., Ga."

"A History of Lauderdale Co., Alabama"

We regret that we have lost by death, reported to us, the following members: Mrs. Marvin C. Nichols, Miss Willie V. Briant, Mrs. George Tipton, Mrs. W. T. Fry, Sr., Mrs. Walter Keith, and Mrs. Lottie Holman Card.

"Early East Tennessee Tax Lists"

"Maury Co., Tenn. Marriage Records, 1807-1837"

Twelve issues of the 16-page Bulletin have gone into the mails on time. Members and friends have submitted interesting material for which we are deeply grateful. Keep sending those records. Our need, too, is for more queries.

"Some Marriages in Montgomery Co., Ky. before 1864"

"A Brief History of First Presbyterian Church, Houston, Texas, 1839-1939"

"Sam Rayburn: Leading the Law-makers"

Now for something not in my department -- The Genealogical clinics, held both in day and night time, were highly successful. We are told that the members of the Society who supplemented the Staff of the Genealogical Division of the Library in July and August rendered valuable service.

"Fort Richardson, Texas (1867-1878) and the MacKenzie Trail"

"British Officers Serving in the American Revolution, 1774-1783"

June was the month of the annual luncheon at which the Society presented the past President, Mr. Chalmers W. Hutcheson with an Honorary Membership in the Society.

"Revolutionary War Records, Mecklenburg, Va."

"Military Records of General Officers of the Confederate States of America"

Our stated programs have been very interesting, but that brings a sad memory. Attendance could be called only "poor," disappointing. Our speakers prepared excellent talks; they deserved larger audiences.

COME TO THE MEETINGS!

Thanks for reading!

LETTER FROM THE FORT WORTH PUBLIC LIBRARY

January 25, 1965

Officers and Members
Fort Worth Genealogical Society
P. O. Box 864
Fort Worth, Texas

Dear Friends:

We in the Southwest and Genealogy Department wish to thank you for your latest gift, seventeen rolls of microfilm from the National Archives, which completes the Federal Population Censuses for Kentucky in 1830 and South Carolina in 1870. Although we were unable to match your generous gift dollar for dollar, because of budgetary limitation, we have ordered microfilm to complete the census of Georgia for 1870.

The support which your society gives to this department makes it possible for us to have so many things which we could not otherwise afford. We appreciate your generosity greatly.

Very truly yours,

/s/ Patricia Chadwell, (Miss) Patricia Chadwell,
Head, Southwest and Genealogy Department

An article in the December 1964 issue of the National Genealogical Society Quarterly on the "Availability of Federal Mortality Census Schedules, 1850-1885" is by Neil Franklin. The article revises and brings up to date a listing given in 1943. Many have changed locations in the twenty one years between the two listings. The mortality schedules are listed alphabetically by states and the present location of each is given.

Another new genealogical publication is Lost Leaves from Southern California Trails, published by Genealogems Publications. Subscription rates are $3.00 per year and quarterly publication dates are March, June, September and December. Queries are free to subscribers. Mail subscriptions and queries to Mrs. Ethel Castelli, 1634 W. Elm Ave., Fullerton, California 92633. The area covered is 10 counties--San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, Kern, Ventura, Los Angeles, Orange, San Bernardino, Riverside, San Diego, and Imperial. Material from all 10 counties is presented in volume 1, 1964, which is complete in the one issue.

The Bulletin of the Stamford Genealogical Society has planned a series of articles to appear in the Bulletin under the general heading, "Genealogical Guidelines." Some of the articles in the series will be original, while others will be reprints or abstracts. The first in the series was a reprint from the American Genealogist, volume 9, pages 130-135, an article by Donald Lines Jacobus on "Dates and the Calendar."

The History of American Funeral Directing by Robert W. Habenstein and William E. Lamers, Bulfin Printers, Inc., Milwaukee, 1955, is an interesting account of funeral customs in various places and ages, though chiefly in America. In writing of funeral broadsides, funeral bills, and other matters, actual examples are given. From them a few bits of genealogical information have been gleaned:

"Christiana Edwards maketh oath that the body of Martha Dolling of the parish of Edgeware which was buried at Edgeware was not wrapped in anything but what was made of sheep's wool only. Dated April 25, 1772. Sworn before me, James Dalton."

"A Neighbor's Tears Sprinkled on the Dust of the Amiable Virgin, Mrs. Rebekah Sewall, who was born December 30, 1704 and dyed suddenly August 3, 1710, Aetatis 6."

David Porter, of Hartford, drowned in 1678.

Boston, Jan. 26, 1872. Bill to Miss E. A. Doe for burial of Emma B. Doe, aged 68 years.

"The first appearance of 'undertaker' in American colonial newspapers to designate one who undertakes to supply the funerary paraphernalia and services seems to have been in 1768."

WHAT'S MY LINEAGE?

95-1 BULLOCK-STEELMAN-HALSELL

Mr. Donald E. Bullock, 6037 Wrigley Way, Fort Worth, Texas 76133, wants information on the families given in the following account: Josiah William BULLOCK, b. 1836 in Tenn.; m. Elizabeth Ann HALSELL on Sept. 1, 1859, in Calhoun Co., Ark.; d. March 19, 1863, in camps near Little Rock; had a sister, Cynthia Ann who m. a Montague A. Steelman; their eldest son, James C. STEELMAN, b. 1849, moved to Texas after his mother's death in Oct. 1865 in order to study medicine under the apprenticeship of a relative (Could this be the R. L. Bullock from Grayson Co. listed under "Doctors of Early Texas" in the Dec. 1964 Bulletin?). Cynthia Steelman's father, known as Chris Bullock, d. in the 1860's, and perhaps her oldest son was named for his grandfather, whose full name might have been James Christopher.

95-2 TIPPETT

Mrs. Edna M. Fonken, P. O. Box 782, Fritch, Texas 79036, would like to hear from anyone knowing anything about her great grand-father, Robert TIPPETT, b. in Tenn. about 1812; came to Texas about 1833 with his family (mother's name was Catherine); settled at Woods Post Office, now in Panola County, Texas. He married (1) Mrs. Mary "Polly" Allison Yelvington (Mrs. Fonken's grandmother) who died in 1853; in 1854 he married (2) Nancy E. Soape, removed to Johnson Co., Texas. From there trace of him has been lost. Who were his parents? And grandparents? He served in the Texas Revolution under Sam Houston at San Jacinto.

95-3 AUSTIN-WEBB

Mrs. Emily Jensen, Manassa, Colo., would like to know the parents of Susan Mollie (called Sally) Austin who married Henry Webb in 1778. The Census Record of Grayson Co., Va. 1840 gives his age as 87 and her age as 79. Would appreciate any information on this family.

OFFICIAL BIBLE AND KEEPER
OBSERVE 50th ANNIVERSARY

Austin Bureau of the News

Austin, Texas--The inauguration Tuesday marked the 50th anniversary for Max Bickler and the Texas Supreme Court Bible.

In 1915, Deputy Court Clerk Bickler was assigned to carry the Bible and official oaths of office to the swearing-in of Gov. James E. Ferguson.

Now retired from the court's staff, Bickler served Tuesday in the same capacity as he has done for all previous inaugurations in the past half-century. The small, taped-up Bible is kept in a fire-proof drawer at the Supreme Court between inaugurations. Its torn fly-leaf carries the date 1840 and the notation that it was the Bible (King James version) of the Supreme Court of the Republic of Texas.

When the State of Texas swore in the first governor in 1846, the Bible was used, as it has been for every governor since.

The Bicklers have a daughter, Mrs. Arthur Grenier, living at 4317 Stanhope in Dallas, and another, Mrs. Stuart E. Buckley in Houston. Bickler's father was a pioneer educator in Austin.

CORRECTION

Mrs. Doris D. Powell of Cleburne, Texas, calls attention to a misprint in the February 1965 Bulletin on page 6, second line, under DOCTORS of EARLY TEXAS. The name, BENLETT, R. C.-Grimes Co. should be NEBLETT. Dr. R. C. Neblett of Grimes Co. was her great grandfather who settled in the county in 1838 and was the organizer of the first Masonic Orphans Home in Anderson, Texas.

Thank you, Mrs. Powell.

FROM THE EDITOR-- Please note this correction in the number of the March Bulletin - Vol. 8 No. 3. It seems errors will creep in where they cause trouble.

We have received some more interesting genealogical compilations. They have been deposited in the Library and are now being catalogued: Carroll County, Tennessee Records. Some Wills, Marriages, Church, Cemetery and Miscellaneous References. Compiled by Mrs. Ione Nolan 1965. A typed copy of A Lost Arcadia by Walter Clarke written in 1909. It is an old history of a small community near Augusta, Ga., and contains much genealogical material. This gift was from Mrs. R. D. Evans of Devers, Texas, who also sent her compilation Liberty County, Texas, Records. History of Pickens County, Alabama 1540-1920 by James F. Clanahan was presented by the Editor of the Bulletin.

We heard a good suggestion this week about gathering family data. Ask your mother and father about their childhood homes: the type of house, yard, animals, etc.; their first schools; first church attended. If grandparents are living, ask them the same questions. Other questions may come to your mind that will make the family history more interesting.

GLEANINGS

by Mildred Dulaney

Most genealogists are familiar with and use many of the publications of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The Lineage Books and the magazine are used daily, as are the court, Bible and cemetery records which various chapters have published.

But how many are familiar with the wealth of material in the annual reports of the D.A.R.? Since the early 1920's "Graves of soldiers of the American Revolution" located in the last year have been carried in table form, alphabetically by state. Information includes the name of the soldier, his birth, death, burial information, and service and additional facts. In some cases the information is meager, but in other cases much family and service information is included. They are well worth investigating, for all the reports give information on graves located.

These annual reports are Senate Documents, and in the Fort Worth Public Library may be found in the Business and Technology Department. A complete list with document number, Congress and session, volume and serial number has been placed in both the Business and Technology Department and in the Southwest and Genealogy Department. The library has all of the 66 annual reports except the first five and the 10th.

In going through these reports, eleven Revolutionary soldiers were found in Texas. Others could have been overlooked in the text. The eleven are:

ABSTOM, John (1922-23) Died in Civil War times at age 109 years; enlisted in Pittsylvania County, Va., as a private in 1779. Grave located by Mary Garland Chapter, Brownwood.

CHAISON, Jonas (1943-44) born in France, died in Beaumont, Texas. Buried in Jirou Cemetery, Beaumont. Came to the United States with Lafayette and fought in Revolutionary Army under Lafayette. Later moved to Beaumont, to join his son already living there. . . .

HODGE, Alexander (1909-10) Houston.

HOGG, Thomas (1929-30, 1930-31) Lengthy account. One states he was grandfather of first native born governor of Texas; the other says he was the great grandfather of the governor.

LEMMONS, James (1948-49, 1949-50) Birth given as 1730 and 1765, death date July 4, 1858. Buried Edgewood Cemetery, Lancaster. Messenger boy to George Washington at 12 years. Wives: (1) Sarah Carr, (2) Amy Rawlins.

PARKER, John (1945-46) Sept. 5, 1758, Baltimore, Md.--May 19, 1836. Buried in Fort Parker, 2 miles from Groesbeck. Private in General Green's brigade, 1777. Killed by Indians in the Parker massacre.

Jasper TEXAS (1909-10), James THOMAS (1922-23), Richard TICE (1938-39), Stephen WILLIAMS (1909-1910) are the other Revolutionary soldiers buried in the state. Listed under Texas but buried in North Carolina was John WITHERSPOON (1948-49).

HANNA SPRINGS WAS PROMINENT PART IN EARLY HISTORY OF LAMPASAS

of my husband, J. S. White, relating to the estate of Isabelle White also the property on which I now reside, namely lots 2-3-4 Block 1 of the town of Lampasas. . . .

The name Hanna appears in the Lampasas County Records as early as the 1870's, and in an early cemetery enclosed by a rock wall are the tombstones of Mr. Samuel Hanna and wife, bearing the dates of 1785-1871 and 1816-1873 respectively.

John and Isabelle may have been credited with having built the home on the south bank of Burleson Creek and having planted the large apple orchard, which many of the early citizens will recall was a mass of beautiful blossoms each spring. As late as 1895 when the first school of the present system was built, these trees also bore some small fruit which the school boys had fun chunking at each other on the school grounds.

Originally the family migrated from Illinois to California, some of them by the way of Lampasas, Texas, and tarried long enough to have made quite an imprint on the early history of the town, and for John Hanna to have married Isabelle White.

It may have been John and Isabelle who had visions of creating a resort for the town, after clearing away the prickly pear cactus, which grew in such abundance, and the loads and loads of buffalo bones which were mired in the mud around the Springs.

They seem to have had considerable holdings, and the law firm of Ramsdell, White, and Hanna is mentioned in the county records. Mr. Jacob Hanna was counselor for the Hanna estate. In book "F" of the records "Sarah White, wife of J. S. White (deceased) conveyed to Jacob Hanna, attorney for the estate, for the consideration of $2000.00 to be paid May 1, 1880 at 7 per cent interest all the rights, interests, and all landed property

. . . Dated March 1881 is the last mention of John and Isabelle that I found. From Jersey Landing, Cal., --"Green Hanna to William Hanna for the sum of $4,695.40 gold coin. All personal property of John Hanna and Isabelle White (deceased) was sold."

THE BARNES FAMILY of TYLER COUNTY, TEXAS

Editor's Note: In response to the invitation to send stories about any of the families mentioned in "EARLY SETTLERS of TYLER COUNTY, TEXAS," this very interesting letter has been received from Mr. Howel W. Woodfin, 3721 Austin Avenue, Waco, Texas 76710.

May 10, 1965

Dear Mrs. Grammer:

... I have been reading with interest the last three months your articles on early Tyler Co., Texas residents. Finally in your May issue my great great grandfather, William R. Barnes, was listed. In this article it is given: "Roberr Rotan and Lucinda (daughter of Wm. R. Barnes)". This is incorrect. All of these Barnes were the children of James Barnes, born in N. C. in 1781. His wife was Tabitha Huff (Hough), daughter of Samuel Huff Revolutionary soldier from Georgia. They were married in Claiborne Co., Miss. about 1810; lived in Wayne Co. and Neshoba Co., Miss.

William R. Barnes, the eldest son, was the first County Clerk of Neshoba Co., Miss. In Deed book, Vol. 1, page 201 in the above county is listed all the children of James Barnes with their dates of birth.

James Barnes & Wm. R. Barnes moved their families to Texas (Tyler Co.) in 1837. They each received headright certificates for 640 acres of land. In the intervening years all of the children moved to Texas by 1845. ...

I shall take the liberty of listing all of James Barnes children since they all lived in Tyler County:

William R. Barnes born 28 Jan. 1813, married Isabella Turner who was born in Tennessee. C. Diston

Samuel H. (Huff) Barnes born 10 Sept. 1814, married Margarett Lucinda Vashti McKee.

Mary Barnes born 15 March, 1818, married Andrew McKee.

James P. Barnes, born 25 Aug., 1820, married Mary Green. He died about 1844 in Texas.

Tabitha Adaline Barnes born 7 Mar. 1822, married J. M. Hallmark.

Calvin A. Barnes born 30 Aug., 1825, married Levicy Crawford.

Nancy Barnes born 27 June, 1827, married Anthony Graham.

Lucinda Barnes born 3 Feb., 1830, married Robert Rotan.

Sarah D. Barnes born 27 June 1835, married William Priest.

Unfortunately we have lost tract of Wm. R. Barnes and most of his family after 1870 Census. We keep hoping to find them in the 1880 Census, but as yet to no avail.

Sincerely yours,

/s/ Howel W. Woodfin

P.S. I would be happy to answer any letters from readers with stamped return. ...

There is a Barnes Family Reunion at Chester, Texas, each year first week-end in June.

WILLIAM HARMON PERRYMAN of TYLER COUNTY, TEXAS

Editor's Note: Another good letter about a Tyler County family was received from Miss Mattie Perryman, P. O. Box 1333, Natchez, Miss.

"The notes on EARLY SETTLERS OF TYLER CO., TEXAS are most enjoyable to me as I had a grandfather who also settled in that county. ...

"William Harmon Perryman, born in Henry County, May 10, 1830. Sarah Adeline Parramore his wife born in Early County, Georgia, whom he had married in Blakely, Georgia, accompanied him to Texas in 1856. They went straight to Town Bluff, Tyler County, where he engaged in farming, since he brought slaves with them. One child, Matthew John Perryman, was born in Shorterville, Henry County, Alabama. Those born in Town Bluff were Mattie, Mollie, Augustus, James, William Yancy (my father) and Sarah Adeline.

"Sarah Adeline Parramore Perryman and her husband were charter members of Fairview Church of Town Bluff, Texas. She is buried in Town Bluff, exact date is not known. Her husband, who survived her, is buried in the Frank's Branch Cemetery at Fred, Hardin County, Texas, having died Oct. 24, 1923.

"As I have other facts on William Harmon Perryman, his wife and their descendants, I shall be happy to hear from other interested descendants. ..."

- Motley Dr. Junius William Mottley (county name spelled erroneously in statute creating it), a Virginian, received his medical training at Transylvania University, in Kentucky. - Nacogdoches Town of Nacogdoches, which was named for the Indians found in the area.
- Navarro Jose Antonio Navarro, born in San Antonio de Bexar in 1795, was active in the political uprisings against the Spanish authorities in 1812-13 and fled to Louisiana. He returned to Texas in 1816. In 1821 he formed a friendship with Stephen F. Austin which lasted until Austin's death. "He was probably killed near the site of Waco on March 4, 1801, while fighting a Spanish force sent to arrest him." (Handbook of Texas) "A memorial stone was erected April 15, 1954, at his grave site four miles south of Rio Vista (Texas) near the spot where he was killed March 21, 1801." "They Were Here" is a new magazine giving Georgia genealogical records. The first issue, dated March 1965, has material from Jasper, Decatur, Houston, Habersham, Irwin, Berrien, Putnam, Washington, Cherokee, Franklin, Pulaski and Heard counties. The magazine is a quarterly priced at $6.50 annually. Order from Frances Wynd, Editor, 2009 Gail Ave., Albany, Ga. 31705.

"Ansearchin'" News has begun a series of abstracts of sketches of Tennesseans who migrated to Central Texas. The sketches come from A Memorial and Biographical History of McLennan, Falls, Bell and Coryell Counties, Texas, published in 1893. The book is rare enough that Texans may find these abstracts as helpful as people in Tennessee.

Naval Documents of the American Revolution, volume 1, edited by William Bell Clark has just been published by the Government Printing Office. This is the first volume in a series that is anticipated to run at least fifteen volumes. This volume of 1451 pages covers the American Theatre: Dec. 1, 1774-Sept. 2, 1775 and the European Theatre: Dec. 6, 1774-Aug. 9, 1775. It includes, in full or in abstracted form, original documents, including letters, ships logs, journals of general assembly, minutes of committees, diaries and other papers. Also included are maps, portraits, drawings and a full index. The series is comparable to the War of the Rebellion series. The document number is D 207.12:1.

Another recent government publication of interest to genealogists and historians is Colonials and Patriots. The first part offers a historical background for the period 1700-83. The second part is classified and carefully evaluated descriptions of historic places that should be visited by those who wish to become acquainted with American history in its "third dimension," the great outdoor archives. It is volume six (though the first published) in a series designed to make available to the public the studies of the National Survey of Historic Sites and Buildings. Genealogists will find interesting the maps which show territory whose ownership was disputed between states. The document number is I 29.2:H62/9/v.6.

The census taker in 1850 in Newton County, Georgia must have been a statistical minded man. At the end of the census he tabulated the places of birth of the residents and listed them as: Georgia 6494, South Carolina 843, North Carolina 543, Virginia 163, Alabama 40, Ireland 28, Tennessee 25, Maine 21, Maryland 10, Connecticut 11, Germany 6, Pennsylvania 5, Massachusetts and Kentucky 4 each.

The Americana Encyclopedia states, "Only one instance is known of a man having a crest without a coat of arms. His name is said to have been Buckworth, and he died before the English College of Arms could prepared a draft of arms to accompany the crest which he had already approved."

OLD SETTLERS OF PARKER COUNTY, TEXAS

Editor's Note--An old newspaper clipping came to light some months ago. The finder thinks that the meeting referred to took place in either 1923 or 1924. It reads in part:

"With a registered membership of 75, the Parker County Half-Century History Club was organized at the Parker county fair Friday afternoon as a result of the Old Settlers' reunion called for the first time at the Fair this year. M. D. Plumlee of Milsap, resident of this county for the last 59 years was chosen president of the new organization. Mrs. I. N. Roach of Weatherford, here 62 years, was the unanimous choice for vice-president, and Mrs. H. L. Moseley, 56-year resident, was selected for the office of secretary. . . .

"A feature of the affair that is regretted by the Fair management is that not half the names of all the fifty-year residents were secured, owing to the crowded condition and hurry. But there is a way to remedy this. All who did not register Friday afternoon are requested to send their names, ages and the date of their arrival in the county to M. D. Plumlee, Milsap, Texas, president of the club. Everyone in Parker county living here over the stated time of fifty years will be considered a full-fledged member of the club when he turns in his name and date of settling, with age. ...

"Of all those who registered Friday, Mrs. S. O. Edwards has the distinction of being the longest in the county. She has called Parker county her home since the year 1846. ... Uncle Dole Miller is next in line, having been here in 1853. ...

"Following is a list of all those who were entered in the registry book Friday afternoon, with the date of each one's arrival:

LETTER re: MORDELLO STEPHEN MUNSON

1055 W. Vanderbilt
Stephenville, Texas.
June 8, 1965.

Mrs. R. N. Grammer, Editor
Fort Worth Genealogical Society
3120 Wabash Avenue
Fort Worth, Texas. 76109

Dear Mrs. Grammer,

Referring to the February 1965 Bulletin, pages 9 and 10, the article about the death of Mrs. Eleanor Russell, on page 10 the name "Mardella A. Munson", should have been Mordello S. Munson. This was my grandfather and his full name was Mordello Stephen Munson. His home was on his plantation at Bailey's Prairie, Brazoria County, Texas. This is six miles from the present Angleton, Texas, and six miles from old Columbia and six miles from old Brazoria. He was a planter and lawyer and had law offices in both Brazoria and Houston. He was born 24 April 1825 in what is now Liberty County, then the Atascosita Dist. He died 13 Oct. 1903 at his plantation and is buried in the family cemetery there.

His father, Henry William Munson served under Capt. William J. Russell in the Battle of Velasco and in the releasing of Travis, Jack, etc. from the prison at Anahuac. He was born in Miss. in January 1793 and moved to Texas in 1824. He served in the Battle of the Medina in 1813.

I thought this might be of slight interest and I was most delighted to read the article. The other three names were all early settlers of the province of Brazoria and I feel sure the initials were those of John Henry Brown, do not you also?

Henry William Munson moved his family from Liberty Co., to Brazoria Co. in 1828 and I have the agreement signed by him and Stephen F. Austin in the original hand writing. Also the survey made of the tract of land. I did not mean to be so lengthy. I am taking the Bulletin to our Munson family reunion which will be June 12 on the old plantation.

Sincerely,

/s/ Erma Munson Rich

THE WARREN FAMILY

Mrs. Clarence E. Moore (Beulah Warren) of 557 Beach St., Fort Worth, sends the following interesting item:

Because of my interest in the Warren family, I went to see Mr. Doyle Robinson, Reagor Springs, Texas. Mr. Robinson is a grandson of R. D. Harris and his wife, Ann E. Richardson Harris (1848-1934). This Ann E. Richardson was a sister of Mary A. Richardson who married John D. Warren in Ellis Co., Texas, on June 23, 1867.

John D. Warren and his brother, Charles Warren were cousins of my grandfather, Benj. H. Warren (1844-1918).

Mr. Robinson gave me a little history of those early settlers to Ellis and Hill counties, coming there from Mississippi, northeastern part. The Richardsons came to Texas about 1850, or soon after that date.

"In the fall of 1864 thirteen big long covered wagons left Tupelo, Miss.; settler where Howard, Ellis county, Texas is now. Howard was first called White League. The thirteen wagons were outfitted at McWhirter's store, Tupelo, Miss., for this trip to Ellis county, Texas." Among the families in this wagon train, Mr. Robinson could recall these:

1. J. D. Robinson, the grandparents of Doyle Robinson--the informant
2. John Fleming family (the Fleming family was related to the Warren and Vickery family in Kentucky).
3. Luther Wells family
4. John Murphy family
5. Miles McWhirter family. Miles was a son of the McWhirter, merchant at Tupelo, Miss., where the group were outfitted for the trip.
6. The Brookshire family

After talking with Mr. Robinson we went to one of the old cemeteries near Reagor Springs. Many of the bodies buried here have been removed. This cemetery is on a hill, in the brush, briars, trees; fence is down and many of the stones are broken; some covered with dirt. We were able to get the following inscriptions:

Welcome to the newly organized genealogical society at Wichita Falls. It is called the North Texas Genealogical and Historical Association and has over fifty members. Mrs. U. J. Dunn, 3107 Cumberland Avenue, has been appointed publications chairman and is investigating the possibility of publishing a bulletin.

There is a South Arkansas Genealogical Society which does not as yet publish a bulletin, according to J. Floyd Bullock, 521 Chestnut St. SW, Camden, Arkansas.

Corpus Christi and Mesquite have also organized genealogical societies in the last few months.

Information on Texas property tax lists and a transcript of the Young County Tax List for 1857 may be found in the Fort Belknap Genealogical Association Bulletin for Spring, 1965.

During the Revolutionary War, the Government was often pressed for funds and frequently the pay of the army was greatly in arrears. To remedy this situation the Continental Congress passed a resolution that the Paymaster General adjust all accounts between the officers and soldiers. As a result John Pierce, Paymaster General and Commissioner of Army Accounts, compiled a register of the sums which remained unpaid at the end of the war. Usually known as Pierce's Register, this list is a part of Senate document 988, 63rd Congress, 3d session, Serial number 6777 and may be used in the Business and Technology Department of the Fort Worth Public Library. Over 93,000 certificates are listed, totalling over ten million dollars. The Register gives only the name of the officer or soldier to whom the certificate was issued but does not show his rank, regiment, or state. If several accounts were owed one man, each was listed separately. Neither does it include any account of the large number of militiamen who were paid by their respective states; nor owing to the peculiar relations existing between the state of South Carolina and the Federal Government, does it include the names of any men from South Carolina. At the beginning is a table listing certificate numbers and to whom they were issued, for example: 1344-1634. Armand's Regiment, United States, paid to November 15, 1783; Capt. De Bert, Agent. The actual listing of names is alphabetical, 564 pages of them.

"He that has no fools, knaves, nor beggars in his family was begot by a flash of lightning."--Thomas Fuller: Gnomologia, 1732.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH of FARMERSVILLE, TEXAS

Editor's Note--The following excerpts are from a booklet, "First Baptist Church, Farmersville, Texas CENTENNIAL STORY 1865-1965," compiled by Chas. J. Rike.

THE FIRST ONE HUNDRED YEARS

On May 14, 1865, a small but devout group of Christians met and organized the First Baptist Church of Farmersville. These early pioneers of our faith had settled in this area during the preceding decade, but there had been no formal organization and no house of worship. The church was organized at a brush arbor revival at the site of the present church. Of the fifteen original members only five were men: Rev. J. C. Averitt, W. D. Chapman, G. B. Robinson, E. F. Tatum, and John Turner. It is presumed that their wives were among the other members, but no records are available.

Rev. John C. Averitt, who led the way in organizing the church, was chosen as the first pastor. Rev. Averitt held both A. B. and M. A. degrees from Wake Forest College, Wake Forest, North Carolina. Since he served other churches, including Ladonia, early services were held once a month. The Masonic Hall was used by the young church until 1877, with members meeting in private homes for prayer and supplication on the Sundays when there was no preacher.

. . . On September 15, 1865, [there was] a total membership of thirty-four, with total contributions of $82.00. . . . It was in 1877, twelve years after the church was organized, that a dignified wooden church along classic lines was built. The edifice was dedicated November 18, 1877, with the dedication sermon delivered by the pastor, J. B. Daniel. Rev. Daniel said in the Texas Baptist Standard of November 15, of that year that this was "the most beautiful and complete house of worship in North Texas." . . .

LETTER RE: HORACE EGGLESTON

From Mrs. Luke C. Fisher, 8449 Banquo Drive, Dallas, Texas 75228

Fort Worth Genealogical Society
Fort Worth, Texas

To whom it may concern:

Please be advised that your November 1963 Bulletin, page 7, Gonzales County, Texas in reference to marriages is in error.

Horace Eggleston m Sarah Ann Ponton, daughter of William and Isabella (Moreland) Ponton (not K. M. & Isabes Ponton)Horace Eggleston was born Aug. 22, 1800, Bloomfield, N. J. and he died March 10, 1855, Gonzales County, Texas.His wife Sarah Ann Ponton was born September 16, 1820, Cooper County, Mo.
and died February 25, 1880.After my great grandfather's death (Horace Eggleston), my great grandmother, Sarah Ann Ponton Eggleston married Benja. Minter on October 15, 1857. Benja.
Minter was born August 6, 1819.There were six children born to Sarah Ann Ponton Eggleston and Horace Eggleston; namely:

1. Amanda Eggleston b/May 2, 1836 (opposite San Jacinto Battle Ground)
2. Wm. P. b/June 29, 1838 San Felipe, Austin Co., Texas
3. Mary Jane Eggleston b/May 27, 1841, Lavaca Co., Texas
4. John H. Eggleston b/December 17, 1842, Lavaca Co., Texas; died
February 11, 1867
5. George Tyler b/July 8, 1845, Lavaca County, Texas; died Aug. 2, 1852
6. Newton Howard (my grandfather from my maternal side) was born
March 15, 1848, Gonzales, Texas, and he died January 5, 1932.

Wm. P. (son) second child died Feb. 13, 1870.

The above data is recorded in the Family Bible.

William Ponton, father of Sarah Ann Ponton Eggleston was killed and scalped by the Comanche Indians in 1834. (SAND IN YOUR CRAW by Paul C. Poethel. P.69)

The children of William and Isabeela Moreland Ponton were

1. Andrew Ponton
2. Joel Ponton, born July 3, 1802, Loving, Nelson County, Va.
3. Sarah Ann Ponton, married Horace Eggleston in Gonzales.
4. Mary Jane Ponton married James B. Patrick prior to coming to Texas.
Mary Jane Ponton Patrick died in Houston or San Felipe in 1837 or 1838.

James B. and Mary Jane Ponton Patrick children:

- a. John Patrick b/1833 or 1834
- b. Sarah Jane Patrick b/1836 or 1837 wife of Hugh W. Monroe.

Dr. Joel Ponton was a tall, slim, wiry man with red hair and mustache. He rode a horse well, which carried him beyond the confines of the county. During his lifetime, he married four times and raised three sets of children, seventeen in all. He settled in the county with his father, William Ponton and Andrew his brother.

LETTER, Cont'd.

The son Andrew was active in organizing resistance to the tyrannical government of Mexico, and was Alcalde of the town of Gonzales in 1835, when the Mexican government sought to recover the cannon loaned the town in 1831. He refused to surrender the gun and the town later defended this right. When the county was organized in 1846, he was elected as its first county judge.

In the meantime, Dr. Ponton was well established in his practice, and, like his brother, was held in high esteem. He was a frequent visitor in Gonzales, and on August 5, 1840, while en route to the town with Tucker Foley, he encountered twenty-seven Comanches on horse; they immediately turned back, and sought refuge on Ponton's Creek, his father's lands. In the chase, Ponton was knocked off his horse with three arrows, one through his hat and into his scalp, and two in the back. The Indians, convinced that he was dead, then left him to pursue Foley. Foley was captured after a short chase, but it was time enough for the doctor to recover his wind and crawl into a thicket, where he remained for the night. The next morning with two arrows in his body and seriously hurt, he crawled through the high grass in the area until he reached the nearest settler's home. It was night before he reached the settlement. Then the alarm was given and the wounds treated. The doctor recovered slowly, but he lived to administer to the needs of the sick for thirty more years. When he died in February 1875, the old hat pierced by the arrows in the encounter was passed down to his descendants as his fondest keepsake.

(A formal closing concludes the letter)

Editor's Note--We are indeed glad to have received the above letter with the data about the Eggleston and Ponton families. Enclosed was a folder of the Eggleston House, built 1839-1840, which was moved by the City of Gonzales to a park near the Historical Memorial and Museum Building. It is one of the Medallion Homes of Texas. (Your Editor has visited the house.) The error pointed out may have come about in several ways. The clerk who recorded the bond may have misunderstood the name; he may have been misinformed; his handwriting may have been difficult to decipher; the copyist could have made an error in transcribing. However it may have happened, we are pleased to have the correction.

And speaking of corrections--Here is another note that we have received:

"Correction--March 1965 Bulletin Page 6, Gravestones in Hico Cemetery
Mary Kirkpatrick should be Mary Kilpatrick
May 5, 1823 - Feb. 26, 1906

My sincere thanks to Mrs. Hugh Jones for copying and to the Bulletin for publishing them. Mary Kilpatrick was my great grandmother and I did not have the date of her death."

By Mildred Dulaney

"The Boundary Disputes of Colonial Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania and Virginia" is ably and scholarly set forth by Fort Worth's own Abby Duggan Moran in an article in the June 1965 issue of Local History and Genealogical Society Quarterly of Dallas.

The only census available for Georgia before 1820 is that of Oglethorpe County for 1800. Heretofore it has been necessary to make a trip to the county to use it, but now this census has been published. The copy includes the names of persons stricken from the original count as having left the county and a complete index has been made. Some extra material has been added. At the time the 1800 census was taken, Oglethorpe County included its present territory and parts of what are now Taliaferro, Greene, and Madison Counties. All genealogists are grateful to Mrs. Mary B. Warren for her work in copying, indexing and making available this important Georgia source material. The book may be purchased for $2.25 from Mrs. Mary B. Warren, 927 Hill Street, Athens, Georgia 30601. Mrs. Warren is also editor of the column "Family Puzzlers" which appears in the Athens Banner Herald. The column publishes questions from readers at no charge. Queries should be sent directly to the column in care of the newspaper.

From the Genealogical Forum of Portland, Oregon comes the following announcement. "For many years there has been a need for an organization that would have for its purpose the formulation of the standards of genealogical research and the establishment of a register of persons who are deemed to be qualified to do this type of research. There has been a growing demand by libraries, archival institutions and societies for a register of competent genealogists and genealogical record searchers.

"The Board for Certification of Genealogists was incorporated in June 1964 under the laws of the District of Columbia. Its functions are to receive applications for certification, to determine if the applicants are qualified to do research by an inspection of their works or by giving them an examination, to issue certificates of approval to applicants found to be competent to engage in professional research, to maintain registers of genealogists and genealogical record searchers, and to make lists of genealogists and record searchers available to libraries, archival institutions, societies, etc. For the present, certification is confined only to those working in the field of American genealogy."

The article continues with an explanation of the difference between genealogists and record searchers and the designation for each, where to write for application blanks and information sheets, the fees for each category, and the members of the Board for Certification of Genealogists. This information is in the June, 1965 bulletin.

GLEANINGS

The Register published quarterly by the Kentucky Historical Society is publishing, in several issues, "Mason County Kentucky, Deaths 1852-1859; 1904". The state's first law providing for the registration of births, deaths, and marriages was enacted January 9, 1852 and repealed August 29, 1962. These records were transcribed from the original manuscript volumes in the State Archives Division of the Society.

"Federal Naturalization Oaths, Charleston, South Carolina, 1790-1860" began in the April, 1965 issue of The South Carolina Historical Magazine, with names beginning with A and running through G in this issue. The list was drawn up by Marion R. Hemperley from federal court records located in the Federal Records Center at East Point, Georgia. The list is not complete for all those naturalized in South Carolina, for some of them are recorded in other places, as explained in the interesting introduction by George C. Rogers, Jr.

"Minutes of the Antioch Baptist Church, Marion County, Mississippi, 1828-1850 and Nathan Smart and Hosea Davis Bible Records" edited by Mrs. R. Chester Upon appear in the May 1965 Journal of Mississippi History.

A sample copy of the Balkan and Eastern European American Genealogical and Historical Society's Publication has been placed in the Fort Worth Public Library by the Fort Worth Genealogical Society. It is a semi-annual publication and the issue received is January, 1965, volume 2, number 1. It pertains to people from Albania, Jugoslavia, Greece, Bulgaria, Rumania, Poland, Russia, Ukrania, Prussia, Austria, Finland, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Turkey, Hungary and Czechoslovakia. Records from various parts of the United States are given, among them the 1870 Cameron County, Texas, census of the people born in the countries named.

Pennsylvania Genealogical Magazine, volume 24, number 1, 1965 has an article, "New Jersey Records; a Genealogical Haystack Full of Needles" by Kenn Stryker-Rodda, F.A.S.G. which anyone planning research in New Jersey should read.

Possibly you can find that lost Texas ancestor in Senate Documents 1st session, 33d Congress, volume 11, Document 69, or a lost ancestor in another state. The document deals with payments by Indian agents. Texas accounts are pages 413-424. A typical entry reads "Jesse Sutton-Services as blacksmith--$62.50." There is no index to the names. All the Indian agencies of the time appear to be listed.

Over Their Dead Bodies: Yankee Epitaphs and History by Thomas C. Mann and Janet Greene is a chronological arrangement and presents epitaphs within the framework of their times. The result is a fresh approach to Americana.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mr. M. T. Peyton of Midland, Texas, has sent a photostat copy of some notes on the Tyree family found among the effects of Frances Fudora (Peyton) Harris, mother of Shelby Harris of near Haskell, Texas. "Mr. Harris does not recognize the Tyree family as being connected with his. The Peyton-Harris families lived in the vicinity of Hope, Arkansas; therefore it can be assumed that the Tyree family could have lived there also. They left Arkansas for Texas about 1875. ... the information may be of value to someone."

From Mr. Will F. Averitt, Route 3, Box 5, Greenwood, Indiana 46142--

"...A Mr. John Averitt of Western Springs, Ill. wrote me that a correspondent of his in Texas wrote him telling him of a celebration of the Centennial of the First Baptist Church at Farmersville, Texas. It states that the Rev. John C. Averitt was the first pastor of this church in 1865. I have the genealogical record of this man because he goes back to the same lineage as myself. Here is his lineage:

1. Christopher Averitt was born in Cornwall, England in ¹⁵⁸⁰1630. Emigrated to Va. 1630
 2. He had a son James Averitt born in Cornwall in 1622, emigrated to Va. 1638
 3. James Averitt had a son Joshua Averitt, born in Surry Co. Va. 1655
 4. Joshua Averitt had a son Henry Averitt born in Isle of Wight Co., Va. 1685
 5. Henry Averitt had four sons: Thomas born in Brunswick Co., Va. in 1713;
Henry born in Brunswick Co. in 1715;
John born in Amelia Co., Va. in 1717;
Joel Averitt born in Amelia Co., Va. in 1721.
- Thomas Averitt was the progenitor of the Illinois Averitts
Henry Averitt was the progenitor of the Averitts in North Carolina, Georgia, and Texas.
John Averitt was the progenitor of the Averitts in Utah, Wyoming, Nevada, Arizona, and other western states.
Joel Averitt was the progenitor of the Averitts of Indiana, Ky., Tenn., and other states. I am from Joel Averitt. The Rev. John Crumpler Averitt is from Henry Averitt.
6. Henry Averitt m. Beulah Tillman in 1741 in Va. and moved to N. C. They had a son, Dempsey Averitt b. in N. C. in 1748.
 7. Dempsey Averitt had a son, John Averitt born about 1786.
 8. John Averitt married Elizabeth Jane Autry (b. 1792) in N. C.
 9. They had a son, John Crumpler Averitt, born in 1822. He graduated from Wake Forest College; married Heler Crocker. They came to Texas about the beginning of the Civil War. He was the one who was the pastor at Farmersville."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR, Cont'd.

From Mrs. Helen Gomer Schluter, 3800 N. Haltom Road, Fort Worth, Texas--

"It may be of interest to some of the readers of the Bulletin to know that the Sabine County Historical Survey Committee is now in the process of restoring one of the oldest--and maybe THE oldest--Anglo-Saxon cemetery in Texas. It is the old Sabinetown Cemetery in Sabine County, Texas.

Among those buried there is the year-old son, Samuel Houston Kaufman, son of the first senator from Texas, David Spangler Kaufman and his wife, Jane Richardson Kaufman. Jane Kaufman's father, Daniel Long Richardson, born 1754, died 1819, is buried in this old cemetery. His grave was one of the few fine marble markers.

Another fine marker is at the grave of Miss Mary Jane Scott. She was born in the state of Mississippi on April 12, 1824 and died February 2, 1842 at Sabinetown in the Republic of Texas--so the marker states.

Dr. Robert Kemp Goodloe, an early doctor of Texas and one who fought at San Jacinto is also buried there. He was born June 8, 1813, died October 20, 1879.

Phillip Talbert Beddoe, another prominent early Texan is buried there. He was the first Beddoe to come to America. He was born in England in 1790. The history of that family is very interesting to read.

Other marked graves are those of G. J. Warringer, S. Hogan, and Mrs. J. A. Morris. There are many unmarked graves, and help is needed to mark them with the proper names. If anyone reading the Bulletin knows of family members who are buried there, will he please get in touch with Mrs. Oscar Pate of Hemphill, Texas 75948. She is in charge of the committee in the restoration of this old cemetery. ...

Sometimes this cemetery is called: 'The Beddoe Springs Cemetery' because it is near the natural springs that was near the old Beddoe home."

From Mrs. Iva Dell Cochran, 1508 Stafford Drive, Fort Worth, Texas---

"The descendants of Thomas Cochran of Mechlenburg, North Carolina, and Silas Maxwell Cochran of Belden, Miss., met for a luncheon at the Brierwood Room of Wyatt's Cafeteria in Seminary South center of Fort Worth, August 1, 1965, for a Cochran reunion.

A record was read of the life of their forefathers of 1024 when Sir John Cochran was made a Lord of Dundonald, Ayr, Scotland, by King James I, by John Kenneth Cochran of Arlington State College, Arlington, Texas. He also read the records of his great grandfather, Stephen Tally Cochran, born in Belden, Miss., 1842, who lost an arm in the Confederate War. Also he read the accounts of the other six brothers who fought in the same war.

The tracing of the Cochran families from Scotland to New York, Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, and Mississippi, and the five brothers and one sister who came to Texas in 1878 was given by Knox Otis Cochran of Crushing, Okla.

ATTENTION CLAN HUTCHESON:

A new book on Hutcheson genealogy entitled "Here It Is - The Hutcheson Genealogy" is being prepared by Martreu Hutcheson Greenwood with the help of all the family, for immediate publication. Primary emphasis is upon the families and descendants of Charles (1763-1839) and Rebecca (1767-1846) Hutcheson, who lived in Virginia and Tennessee. The information on their descendants who came to Texas and some Tennessee families is very complete. Hundreds of other family names are included that have married into and are related to the Hutcheson lines.

The success of this book is dependent on pre-publication orders. This book can be published only if sufficient pre-paid orders are received. If an insufficient number are received, the money will be refunded. Please send in your order now with money attached so this project can be carried out. The cost of $4.00 per volume is only sufficient to cover the actual out-of-pocket cost. The compilation of the information has been a labor of love. After publication, the cost of each volume will be $5.00 (postage prepaid).

It is anticipated that the book will be ready for distribution in two or three months, depending upon how fast and the number of orders received. There will probably be about 300 pages, with 20 or so pictures, and bound with a hard cover.

Orders should be sent to (and checks made payable to)
 Maud Sneed, Secretary-Treasurer
 1801 Thomas Place, Fort Worth, Texas 76107

We shall appreciate a prompt reply.

TEXAS COUNTIES AND THEIR NAMES
Concluding Installment

Name of CountyNamed for Whom or What

Walker

Originally named for U. S. Secretary of the Treasury Robert J. Walker; renamed for Capt. Samuel H. Walker, Texas Ranger. (1965 Texas Almanac)

Samuel Hamilton Walker was born in Maryland about 1810. He came to Texas in 1836; joined the Texas Rangers and became a renowned fighter. About 1839 he was sent to New York to deal with Samuel Colt regarding the purchase of arms for the Texas Republic. He found Colt and was largely responsible for the successfully modified pistol known thereafter as the Walker Colt. In 1842 he was in the Republic again, taking part in numerous expeditions, including Somervell and Mier. He was a prisoner for several months in Perote. He fought in the War with Mexico. He was killed while making a charge into Huamantla, Tlaxcala, on Oct. 9, 1847. His body was returned to San Antonio for burial.

In 1830, ten miles north of present Bastrop, the two brothers made a settlement. Josiah died in 1845; Mathias in 1853.

Editor's Note: The lineage of Eli Tipton sent by Mr. Woodfin will be published in the November 1965 Bulletin.

GLEANINGS

By Mildred Dulaney

On August 16, 1965 the new Georgia State Archives building was opened to the public for service. A picture of the building may be found on the cover of the Georgia Magazine for August-September, 1965. The magazine also carries a story of the move from the old building to the new.

The Archives building is located at Capitol Avenue and Memorial Drive in Atlanta, just a short distance from the capitol and other state buildings. Built at a cost of $6,600,000, every safety device known to man has been incorporated. For example, the smoke from a single cigarette is enough to set off the sensitive fire detection devices. (Certain areas have been set aside where smoking is permitted.) In all other ways the records are as safe from all destructive elements as man's ingenuity can devise. Parking is ample, elevators are handy, and a staff eager to serve make it a pleasure to visit the archives. Thirty new microfilm readers, each equipped with writing lights, and posture chairs makes this department the envy of other libraries. Many of the records of the counties have been filmed and are available at the Archives, and the process is continuing. The Archives brings in the original records from the counties, treats them and fumigates them, laminates the pages, rebinds the volume, microfilms it, and then returns the original to the county.

Congratulations to Georgia for a job well done!

From Thesaurus of Anecdotes, edited by Edmund Fuller and published in 1942 by Crown Publishers, p. 169, comes this comment on genealogy: "Paul Bourget: Life can never become entirely dull to an American. When he has nothing else to do he can always spend a few years trying to discover who his grandfather was." "Mark Twain: Right, your Excellency. But I reckon a Frenchman's got his little standby for a dull time too; he can turn in and see if he can find out who his father was!"

According to a "Report of the Committee of Linguistic Stocks, American Council of Learned Societies, 1931" as quoted in Historical Geography of the United States by Ralph H. Brown, 1948, Harcourt, Brace and Company, the white population of the United States in 1790 had the following percentages: English 60.1, Scotch including Ulster 8.1, Irish Free State 3.6, German 8.6, Dutch 3.1, French 2.3, Swedish 0.7, Spanish 0.8, and unassigned 6.8. This book should be of great interest to genealogists since it deals with the geographic and economic factors affecting the lives of early settlers. The many maps are well worth studying.

In brethren born, and show the father's blood."

HOOD'S TEXAS BRIGADE

by Colonel Harold B. Simpson

Editor's Note: We are indeed grateful to Colonel Simpson for permitting us to publish excerpts from the talk which he made on "Hood's Texas Brigade" at the annual luncheon of the Fort Worth Genealogical Society on October 2, 1965.

This is the story of one of the greatest fighting units ever organized on the North American continent--it is known to history as Hood's Texas Brigade and it fought for Robert E. Lee in the army of Northern Virginia in the American Civil War.

Hood's Texas Brigade, as the name implies, was composed primarily of Texans--the 1st, 4th, and 5th Texas volunteer infantry regiments, and did include at various times during the war, a regiment of Georgians (the 18th), a regiment of Arkansans (the 3rd), and a regiment of South Carolinians (Hampton's Legion). Up to and including the Battle of Gettysburg this famed brigade was supported by a hot-firing North Carolina Battery of six guns commanded by a rotund Irishman, named Captain James Reilly.

Of all the military units that Texas contributed to the Confederate cause, no other held a place in the hearts of the Texans as did this brigade. I believe that four reasons can be given for this. First, the thirty-two Texas companies that were in the brigade were recruited from twenty-six different counties--thus representing a great many Lone Star communities, hence, interest in this military unit was state-wide. Second, this group of soldiers were the only Texans who fought in the Army of Northern Virginia under the indomitable Robert E. Lee--a legendary army under a legendary leader. Third, Hood's Texas Brigade compiled a fantastic war record and these successes were accomplished under the most adverse conditions--so to the Texans back home, every man in this brigade was a hero. And fourth, the brigade was a one hundred per cent volunteer unit. They were the first men in their respective communities to volunteer for duty in an active theater, and they were the first Texas troops to reach a major theater of operations. Hence, the great esteem with which this fighting unit was regarded in the Lone Star State and in the South.

Most of the companies that formed the Texas regiments of Hood's Brigade had been organized originally as local county or town militia companies in early 1861. Except in one or two cases, each of these companies possessed a locally designated, fancy nickname. In some cases these names were designed to instill pride in a particular locality, such as the "Navarro Rifles" and the "Crockett Southrons," in other cases the fancy names publicized individuals, like the "Reagan Guards" and the "Tom Green Rifles" and in still other cases the prowess of the local unit was emphasized, as in names like the "Leon Hunters," the "Texas Invincibles," and the "Five Shooters." However, once the companies arrived in Virginia, their fancy local labels were exchanged for the drab, alphabetical, army designations. Hence, the game, gallant and glamorous "Knights of Guadalupe County" became plain Company "E," Fourth Texas Infantry Regiment, and by this homey designation it was known throughout the war. All of the other Texas companies made this same unromantic transition.

HOOD'S TEXAS BRIGADE, Cont'd.

How good was this Texas Brigade? An evaluation of its service to Lee and the Confederacy and its efficiency as a combat unit has been recorded for posterity by both contemporary and present day observers and writers.

In a letter to Senator Wigfall of Texas, following the Battle of Antietam, Lee wrote, "I have not heard from you with regard to the new Texas regiments which you promised to raise for the army. I need them very much. I rely upon those we have in all our tight places and fear I have to call upon them too often. They have fought grandly and nobly and we must have more of them. With a few more regiments such as Hood has now, as an example of daring and bravery, I would feel more confident of the coming campaigns." On still another occasion the great southern leader had an opportunity to praise the Texans. While reviewing his army in the presence of Col. Wolseley, an observer from the British army, who chanced to remark how ragged the seats of the pants of the Texas brigade were, Lee quickly retorted, "Never mind their raggedness, Colonel, the enemy never sees the backs of my Texans." Lee was impressed with the fighting ability of his Texans.

John H. Reagan, a man greatly esteemed throughout the South, who served as postmaster-general of the Confederacy and after the war as a legislator and senator from Texas and finally as the state's railroad commissioner, was generous with his praise for the Texas brigade. Said Reagan, "I would rather have been able to say that I had been a worthy member of Hood's Texas Brigade than to have enjoyed all the honors which have been conferred on me. I doubt if there has ever been a brigade or other military organization in the history of the world that equalled it in the heroic valor and self-sacrificing of its members and in the brilliancy of its services."

Major-General Martin W. Gary, who commanded a brigade next to the Texas brigade in the defense of Richmond in 1864-65, wrote in 1879, that "when history is truthfully written, Hood's Texas Brigade will stand first among the brigades of the Army of Northern Virginia."

John Bell Hood, the eighth and last Confederate general to be promoted to four star rank, and who commanded the brigade for some six months, was profuse in his praise for his old command. Writing his memoirs after the war, Hood remarked, ". . . in almost every battle in Virginia, it (referring to his old brigade) bore a conspicuous part. . . . If a ditch was to be leaped, or a fortified position to be carried, General Lee knew no better troops upon which to rely. In truth, its signal achievements in the War of Secession have never been surpassed in the history of nations."

Outstanding modern day writers such as Bruce Catton, Ben Ames Williams, and Douglas Southall Freeman, after almost a hundred years in retrospect, have echoed these same sentiments. Catton recently referred to the Texas brigade as "The grenadier guard of the Confederacy" and said that the troops of Hood's Division were considered to be "the hardest fighters in all of Lee's army." Williams called the Texas brigade the "greatest single fighting unit in Lee's army," and Freeman, the dean of all Confederate historians, remarked that the brigade was, "man for man, perhaps the best combat troops in the army."

The combat record of the brigade was one of the best, if not the best, for any like unit during the war. As one member of the brigade quipped toward the end of the conflict, "We gained a reputation as fighters at Gaines' Mill and it practically killed all of us to maintain that reputation for the rest of the war."

The brigade was present at 38 engagements that spanned a time period from Eltham's landing, May 7, 1862, to Appomattox Court House, April 9, 1865, and ranged in intensity from the two casualties at Rice's Depot (April 6, 1865) to the 638 casualties at 2nd Manassas (August 29-30, 1862).

Not included in this 38 figure was the roasting ears fight on August 23, 1862, and the great snowball fight that took place January 9, 1863. In the former scrap the Texans and Yanks bombarded each other with ears of corn in the midst of a 100 acre cornfield in a fight for food. In the second hassle the Texas brigade started a snowball fight that eventually involved about 15,000 "rebel yelling" Confederates and had the Federals across the river saddling up awaiting what appeared to be a Confederate attack on their position.

It has been estimated that some 4,500 men fought under the shredded battle flags of the three Texas regiments of the brigade. At Appomattox, after almost four years of arduous service, but 476 or a little over ten per cent of these soldiers were left to surrender. Bullets and disease had killed hundreds, and hundreds more had been invalided home from crippling wounds and prolonged sieges of sickness!

Besides the hell of shot and shell that rained on the brigade, its members were exposed to the rigors of long marches and inclement and intense weather during their numerous campaigns. The East Tennessee campaign conducted during the winter of 1863-64 was a particularly trying one. The temperature was often freezing with snow on the ground, and while one fourth of the men were actually without shoes, all had to be content with tattered uniforms, threadbare blankets and rancid or no rations. Wherever they marched, the jagged ice and frozen roads cut their feet and gave the snow a crimson hue. During the march from Texas to New Orleans in the summer of 1861, the companies of the 4th and 5th Texas had to wade through the swamps and mud of lower Louisiana during the rainy season and combat alligators, snakes, and swarms of mosquitoes in the process. The wonder of it all is, how even 476 men were still able to answer roll call at Appomattox.

After Appomattox the veterans of Hood's Brigade straggled back to Texas-- some individually, others in small groups and still others in large parties. They walked, they went by boat and they rode the rails back to the Lone Star State, each eager to see his family and again embrace their interrupted civilian pursuits. . . .

John H. Roberts of Company "E" of the 1st Texas was the last known survivor of Hood's Texas Brigade--the last mortal link of this grand group of fighters to the sunny southland. Roberts passed away at his home in Arcadia, Texas, on March 10, 1934, at the age of 94.

On that March 10, 1934, the last tattoo for Hood's Texas Brigade was sounded; an era in Confederate and Texas history ended and another brigade of the Army of Northern Virginia was dropped from the muster rolls.

"The muffled drums sad roll has beat
The soldiers last tattoo;
No more of life's parade shall meet
That brave and fallen few.
On fame's eternal camping ground
Their silent tents are spread
And glory guards with solemn sound
The bivouac of the dead."

Whether acting in the capacity of scouts, skirmishers, sharpshooters or line of battle fighters, the soldiers of Hood's Texas Brigade had few, if any, equals in the annals of American fighting men from the Battle of Bunker Hill to the Battle of the Bulge. This unit was a credit to its American heritage, a credit to the famous army in which it fought and a credit to the state that it represented. May Texas never forget the heroic deeds of Hood's Texas Brigade, the bravest of the brave!

THE HISTORY OF FRANKLIN COUNTY, TEXAS
1874 - 1964

Editor's Note: The following paragraphs are taken from THE HISTORY OF FRANKLIN COUNTY 1874-1964 compiled by Key Club, Key District, T. F. W. C. Edited by Charles Brown, County Agent.

When LaSalle discovered the mouth of the Mississippi River, he took charge of the river and all lands drained by it, in the name of and for the King of France.

Since the Red River is a tributary of the Mississippi, this would include all of the lands in North Texas that drains into Red River. The line was never settled between France and Spain. Therefore, it was referred to as 'no man's land'. When the United States bought Louisiana in 1803, Mr. Jefferson and his associates thought they were buying the south side as well as the north side of the river. Maps issued by the United States show this to be true.

Spain, in retaliation for France's unreasonable claim to the Rio Grande had always laid claim to the Red River.

In 1819, the United States and Spain settled the line controversy by the U. S. relinquishing its claim to the south side of the Red River as a part of the consideration for Florida.

The treaty line called for the Sabine from its mouth to where the 32nd parallel of latitude crossed it, and from there due north to Red River, thence up Red River to the 100th meridian.

But no surveying was done and no one knew where the 32nd parallel crossed the Sabine. Some claimed it as low down as Nacogdoches and some as far north as Longview, or even Mineola.

If the 32nd parallel had crossed the Sabine higher up, the due North line would have hit Red River higher up and Northeast Texas would have been in Arkansas. This caused considerable confusion. Spain, and later Mexico, made land grants in Northeast Texas and the State of Arkansas laid claim to this section and included it in Miller County, Ark.

The settlers paid little attention to who claimed them until the Sheriff of Miller County came into the country to collect taxes; then they formed a mob and drove him off, claiming that they were in the Republic of Texas.

When Richard Ellis was president over the convention that declared Texas independent, his son who lived in the same house with him, was a member of the Arkansas Legislature from Miller County.

When the Texas Republic was formed and was supposed to include all of the land, the Red River County was formed and was supposed to include all the land the Red River drained from its south side, from about the present Ark. line to its source. The question of the eastern boundary was not settled until 1841 when the U. S. and Texas had the line surveyed.

In 1837, the Texas Congress divided Red River County, and created Fannin County. Fannin County thus became the name of parts of 27 counties to the west.

At the same time Fannin County was cut off, the Congress defined the boundaries of Red River County. Beginning at the mouth of Bois d'Arc (the eastern line of Fannin County) running up that stream to Carter's Bluff (residence), crossing thence south to a point west of the head of the Big Cypress, east to its head and down that to Soda Lake (Caddo Lake), thence east to the line to the Red River, up that to the beginning, which contained the present counties of Lamar, Bowie, most of Hopkins, and all of Franklin, Titus, Morris, and Cass.

The old designation of the ridge dividing Red River from the Gulf Coastal Plain was abandoned because of its irregular shape, and due to the fact that Big Cypress was a convenient natural boundary.

In 1840, Congress cut off the west end of Red River County to make Lamar County, and the east end to make Bowie County. All of these counties extended south to the Big Cypress.

In 1841, Congress passed an act which cut off all of the territory of Bowie, Red River, and Lamar south of Sulphur River and organized it into a county called Paschal, and ordered that the county seat should be named Daingerfield.

Paschal County included nearly all of Hopkins, all of Franklin, Titus, Morris, and Cass, and a part of Marion. The operation as a county was brief, for it was knocked out the new year by a decision of the Supreme Court, because the act of creating it specified that it should have no representative in the Congress, and the Constitution of the Republic said each county should have a representative. The territory reverted to the original counties.

In 1846, the First Legislature divided this territory into three parts, and made Hopkins out of Lamar, and the north end of Nacogdoches; thus Titus out of the south end of Red River and five and one half miles off Bowie; and Cass out of the balance of the south end of Bowie.

When Titus was organized, the county seat was located near the center of the county and called Mt. Pleasant.

Titus was a rather wide county but no wider than many others; but Daingerfield had been born as a county seat and could not forget its royal birth. It was too far east to hope ever to be the county seat of Titus county; its only chance was to create a new county. To cut a strip off the east end of Titus would leave Mt. Pleasant in the eastern part of the county. Over to the west was Mt. Vernon which was not at all opposed to becoming a county seat.

Thus, in 1875 the Legislature divided Titus into three parts and made Franklin, Titus, and Morris with Mt. Vernon, Mt. Pleasant, and Daingerfield their respective county seats.

Franklin County and its neighboring counties have been claimed by five countries, and four counties and two states. . . . It was a part of Red River County, Fannin County, Paschal County, and Titus County, finally becoming a county in 1874 with Mt. Vernon as its county seat.

A post office was established in Mt. Vernon under the name of Keith, Titus County, Texas, on July 20, 1848. William S. Keith was postmaster.

In August or September of 1848 the Canadays, Longs, Hightowers, O'Neals, Hales, Turleys and Keiths met where Mt. Vernon now stands and decided to start a trading post in the county.

The town consisted of 24½ acres of land donated by Stephens Keith and wife Rebecca Keith, out of the northeast corner of the Joseph Sloan Survey.

HISTORY OF FRANKLIN COUNTY, Cont'd.

It was deeded to Joshua Johnson, Gibson Myers, William Wilson, Samuel Gregg, and William S. Keith.

The settlers for the most part were from the old states of Virginia, Georgia, Tennessee, and Mississippi. A few of the families were Arrington, Holbrook, Rouch, Petty, Collins, Brooks, Davenport, Ruth, Rutherford, Hill.

The post office name was changed from Keith to Lone Star on November 19, 1850. . . . On September 21, 1875, the post office was changed to Mt. Vernon, Franklin County, Texas.

GLADE SPRINGS is one of the small communities in Franklin County. The church and schoolhouse were built before the Civil War and named for the springs of water and glade nearby.

On November 7, 1858, a group met at Smith School in Titus County (now Franklin) to organize a missionary Baptist church. The presbytery was composed of Elders E. Southerland, Joshua F. Johnson, A. G. Talbott and James Isaac. . . .

The first pastor regularly called was E. Bowman and the first clerk was J. N. Kellis.

GLEANINGS

Indian ancestry is frequently difficult to trace; therefore it seems worthwhile to mention two books which have just come to our attention. Both are compiled by John Bert Campbell. One is Campbell's Abstract of Creek Freedman Census Cards and Index published in 1915 by the Phoenix Job Printing Company, Muskogee, Oklahoma. The other is Campbell's Abstract of Seminole Indian Census Cards and Index published in 1925 by the Oklahoma Printing Company, Muskogee, Oklahoma. Reference is made in the index to still another similar compilation on the Creek Indians. Both are compiled from the originals in the Office of the Superintendent of the Union Agency in Muskogee. The actual records were made in 1898. After the Civil War the Creeks entered into a treaty with the United States and by the terms of this treaty all slaves of members of the Creek Nation were recognized as members of that tribe and were given equal rights with those by blood. As a result many members of the Cherokee, Choctaw, Chickasaw, Seminole, and other tribes are found among the Creek Freedman Census cards.

Information on the card for each family includes the roll number, the number of each individual, the name, age, sex, relationship to the head of the household, name of the father and whether he is living or dead and his citizenship, the name of the mother and whether she is living or dead and her citizenship. Appendices give lists of new born Indians listed at a later date, an index of all names, and other material. Some of the Indians have both surname and given names while others have only one name. Some are of Indian origin, such as Co-wak-ochee, and others are as accustomed to our ears as Thompson.

An Associated Press story carried in the Fort Worth Star Telegram of October 10, 1965, tells of a study carried through eight generations of one family by a team of Florida physicians. It began with the sudden death of a 16 year old boy and his 14 year old sister. The puzzle was why either should have died so unexpectedly, with no apparent cause. By tracing the family tree and getting detailed histories of 127 members, the physicians discovered that 21 of them had died under similar circumstances. The conclusion reached was that they had inherited malformations in the electrical or pacemaker systems of their hearts.

American Heritage for December 1962 carries an article on the Lewis family, from the American Revolution to the twentieth century. It is based on two albums, illustrated with photographs and water colors, made by George Albert Lewis and his wife Anne for their grandchildren. The name of the first ancestor was Johann Andreas Philipp Ludwig who later changed his name to Lewis. He was a soldier in one of the Hessian regiments hired by the British to fight the revolting Americans. The illustrations are charming and make one wish all grandparents would compile such a record for their grandchildren.

FROM WHENCE THEY CAME AND WHEN

Editor's Note: William Moses Jones in his two books, "Texas History Carved in Stone" and "Texas Testimony Carved in Stone," has recorded the more than a thousand markers which were erected during 1930-1940 by the State of Texas and certain organizations in celebration of the independence of Texas gained in 1836. As a result of a study of the individual markers given in these two publications and with the "Handbook of Texas" as reference, Mrs. Abby Moran and Mrs. Norma R. Grammer offer a list of those men who served the cause of Texas, in one way or another, before and in the day of the Republic, with their dates of birth and death, the year they came to Texas, and one tag as to service. No effort was made to identify those heroes of the Alamo, Goliad, San Jacinto, Mier Expedition, or the men of Captain Amon B. King's company and other such groups who have been memorialized by monuments.

The heading of each section indicates the state in which the men listed there under were born. Unless otherwise indicated, they died in Texas.

GLEANINGS

By Mildred Dulaney

Recollection of Farm Life is an authentic account of northeast Texas during the turn of the century as seen by Robert L. Hunt, Sr. Part III will probably be the most helpful section to the genealogist since it deals with early religion, diary of an early settler, and family and area history. The organizational minutes of Snow Hill Baptist Church and a list of some of the early members are in this section of the book.

In speaking of the family, Mr. Hunt writes, "Grandfather Hunt had a fair education considering the times. He liked history especially well and gave all of his children historical names such as Anglo Saxon, Castro Alpine, Inez, Janirio, Cortez, Tugalo, Zurio and LaVater."

And then there was Gilbert Richey who had twins, born about 1795 and named them Adam and Eve, according to Roster of Soldiers and Patriots of the American Revolution Buried in Indiana.

The Austin Genealogical Society Quarterly for June, 1965 contains Bible records on the following families: Beall, Briscoe, Brown (2), Bunton, Clement, Connell, Costley (2), Cougar, Davis, Dobbs, Dunlap, Forrester, Hawkins, Hudspeth (2), Lodge, McCleskey, Pickle, Rowzee, Russell (3), Stewart, Talbot and Washington.

An article of the Federal Records Center, Fort Worth, by C. George Younkin has appeared in the Oklahoma Genealogical Society Bulletin for June 1965. This is the first installment of the article and others will appear later.

A very interesting article, "Research in Scotland--The Scottish Record Office," by A. Anderson appeared in the August, 1965 issue of Southwestern Genealogist.

Adrienne Christopher has adopted an unusual way of writing her family records. It is "Family Tree in Rhyme" and was published in the Kansas City Genealogist for October, 1965.

This same magazine carries an advertisement for photographic reproductions of a map of 1850 that shows county lines at that time. The owner and photographer is Don Vincent, 1200 Boylston, Seattle, Washington 98101.

Does any one know of any place where maps of all the states, showing county lines, can be found for all the various census dates? So far our research into the question has located only one--Alabama. The printed 1820 census of that state does have maps for all census dates. But where can we locate the same thing on the other states? Any help you can give will be passed on in this column and shared with others.

MARRIAGES FROM HISTORY OF THE CHEROKEES

Editor's Note: Mrs. Marie Wilkins of Oklahoma has extracted some of the marriages mentioned in "History of the Cherokee Indians and Their Legends and Folklore" by Emmett Starr, and has been kind enough to send us a copy. She writes that there are "hundreds more" but "sadly enough there are no dates given."
