Re: Campbell Poynor
Tarrant County, Job #18499

Dear Ms. Reynolds:

The members of the State Marker Review Board [SMRB] have completed their evaluation of your application for an Official Texas Historical Marker for Campbell Poynor in Tarrant County. I regret to inform you that the SMRB has voted not to approve your application.

The SMRB members carefully considered the application, but in the end declined to approve the topic for a marker. While the history as submitted clearly demonstrated that Campbell Poynor served in the Mexican War and worked as a farmer in Tarrant County, the application failed to sufficiently establish historical significance. The SMRB members felt that Poynor was a fine citizen, but was no more historically significant than countless other early settlers and Mexican War veterans. One SMRB member suggested that you contact the Descendants of Mexican War Veterans at P. O. Box 830482, Richardson, Texas, 75083-0482 (web site address www.dmww.org) for information regarding grave markers offered by that organization.

Although the decisions of the SMRB are final, if you wish to discuss this matter please do not hesitate to contact me. Your original application materials will be returned to you under separate cover. I have enclosed a list of private plaque manufacturers in case you want to pursue a private marker for this topic.

Sincerely,

Recorded Texas Historic Landmark Markers

Markers conveying the Recorded Texas Historic Landmark (RTHL) designation are reserved solely for historic structures deemed worthy of preservation for their architectural integrity and historical associations. The RTHL designation does carry a measure of legal protection for the structure (see Marker Policies 13 through 18) and for that reason we must have a legal description (lot and block numbers) for the property to be designated. The most commonly used marker for conveying this designation is the medallion and plate (also referred to as a building marker); however, the 18" x 28" or 27" x 42" size marker may be ordered for those who wish a greater amount of historical information to appear in the marker text. Careful attention should be paid so as not to damage historic building material if the marker is to be mounted directly onto the structure. The THC staff can provide alternate ideas for mounting upon request.

CAMPBELL POYNOR (1825-1908)

by Ida Joe Reynolds, 4605 Starlight Drive
Ft. Worth, Texas 76117; (817-485-7738)

Soon after the Mexican War began in 1846, thousands of Texans enlisted, many of them hoping to get revenge on the Mexicans for perceived wrongs from earlier years. Among the Texans who joined the American army was a twenty-two-year-old native Tennessean named Campbell Poynor, who left Texas within a few years of the war's end and returned to his former home in Arkansas. In 1865 he came back to Texas permanently and became one of Tarrant County's pioneers.

Poynor's descendants wish to mark his grave in Fort Worth's historic Oakwood Cemetery in honor of his early residence in Texas and his service as a soldier in Peter Hansborough Bell's Regiment during the Mexican War. He was one of only a handful of Mexican War veterans who settled in Tarrant County.

Campbell Poynor was born on January 5, 1825, in Bledsoe County, Tennessee.¹ One of his grandsons believed his full name was "Campbell Henry Poynor." The gravestone of his wife gives his name simply as "C. Poynor." Most official records refer to him "Campbell" or "C." Poynor. Whatever his exact name, he was the son of William Poynor, a native Virginian born about 1795, and his wife, Elizabeth (Campbell) Poynor. Elizabeth, born about 1788 in North Carolina, was several years her husband's senior.²

William Poynor, Campbell's father, served in both the War of 1812 and the Black Hawk War.³ William Poynor and his wife lived in Tennessee when at least two of their children were born: M. B. Poynor about 1824,⁴ and Campbell Poynor in 1825.⁵ By 1830, the Poy nors moved to Franklin County, Illinois.⁶ In 1839 they moved again, settling near Carrollton in Carroll County, Arkansas.⁷ In 1840, the family was living in Osage Township in Carroll County.⁸ In 1850, they were still in Carroll County but were in Carrollton Township.⁹ Shortly after 1850, the elder Poy nors moved for one last time, to Jasper, Newton County, Arkansas. William Poynor worked his last years as a grocer and died there in 1861.¹⁰

Campbell Poynor told pension officials he enlisted as a private in the Mexican War at San Antonio, Texas on October 7, 1847, in Captain Crump's Company of Mounted Volunteers. At the time of his enlistment he was 5 feet, 10 inches tall, had a fair complexion, blue eyes, and black hair. He was a farmer. He also stated that he enlisted for a term of one year, and was discharged at San Antonio in October, 1848.¹¹ Soon after he left the service, Poynor apparently mailed his original discharge to Washington in support of his claim for bounty land. It was never returned to him and remains in his bounty land claim file to this day.

Captain Wm. G. Crump's Company was a part of Lt. Col. Peter Hansborough Bell's Regiment of Texas Mounted Volunteers. Bell was promoted to Colonel on July 11, 1848. Capt. Crump's company was composed of personnel recruited primarily at San Antonio, Texas.

They were mustered into federal service on September 30, 1847, and mustered out on September 30, 1848. The original officers included Capt. William G. Crump (age 30), First Lt. H. M. C. Brown (age 27), Second Lt. David L. Pettit (age 26), and Second Lt. Samuel Smith (age 27).¹²

Crump's original company included eleven non-commissioned officers and ninety-seven privates ranging in age from 18 to 44, with their average being 25. One of the original privates listed on the muster roll is Campbell "Payner," aged 22 years.¹³

William Lochren, Commissioner of Pensions in Washington, D.C., noted on May 15, 1894 that he had examined Poyner's discharge on file at the Bureau of Pensions. It showed that Poyner enlisted on September 28, 1847, and was mustered out with his company at San Antonio on September 30, 1848.¹⁴ The original discharge, still on file in Washington in Poyner's bounty land file, was signed by Captain William G. Crump and the mustering officer, George A. H. Blake, Captain of the Second Dragoons.¹⁵

According to Col. T. C. Ainsworth, the Chief of Office at the Record and Pension Office at the War Department, on May 17, 1894:

"This Co. was called into service of U. S. by the Gov. of Texas under Authority of the Secretary of War for the protection of the frontier of Texas against the hostile Mexicans and Indians."

In an 1887 deposition, Poyner said he had served mostly on the Texas frontier on or near the Rio Grande, and that once he was ordered into Mexico to guard a paymaster, Col. Coffee, in the summer of 1848.

When asked to remember the names of some comrades in Crump's Company, he remembered First Lt. Brown, Second Lt. Dave Petty, and Third Lt. Smith. He recalled Sergeants Briggs, Benbrook, and Evans; and Corporals Foster and Cox. He remembered serving with Privates Jack Trammel, Martin Griswold, Larkin West, "____ Crane," James Vaughn, James Mack, and "Tom Ch____."¹⁶ The original muster rolls of the company reveal that the men he remembered included J. E. Trammell (age 25), Augustus M. Griswold (age 25), L. M. West (age 23), Roddin T. Crain (age 27), J. J. Vaughn (age 31), and James Mack (age 25).¹⁷

On October 4, 1848, Campbell Poynor applied for the bounty land due him based on his service. Captain William G. Crump signed his application on the same day. Poynor requested that the certificate or warrant due him be delivered to Hon. D. S. Kaufman or C. A. Harper. Later, in the 1880's, he stated that he had given power of attorney to Hewitt and Harper of San Antonio, Texas, who represented him in obtaining the land. In two places on the bounty land application, he clearly signed his name as "Campbell Poinor." He received Warrant No. 43746 for one hundred sixty acres of land. The file contains nothing about his final disposition of the land.¹⁸

Two years later, on October 18, 1850, the federal census taker recorded that Poynor owned no real estate.¹⁹ This suggests that he may have sold his bounty land certificate to someone else.

Campbell Poynor married his wife, Eliza R. Welch, in Bexar County, Texas on December 25, 1849. They were married by Major Scott of the U. S. Army.²⁰ Eliza was born in Tennessee on February 16, 1834.²¹ Campbell Poynor told the Bureau of Pensions in Washington that he had sent his marriage certificate to San Antonio for recording and it had not been returned.²² No other persons surnamed Welch are listed in the federal census of Bexar County, Texas in 1850, and none appear in the 1850 census of Carroll County, Arkansas.

On October 11, 1850, Campbell Poynor and wife, Eliza, are listed in the 1850 census of Bexar County, Texas as residents of Eagle Pass along the Rio Grande. A notation in the margin says "Families Living opposit the Escondido River on the Rio Grande." Campbell was shown as a 25-year-old laborer. Eliza was 17 years old. A forty-year-old native of Wales named Ann Morgan was also living with them.²³ In 1850, Bexar County was huge, encompassing dozens of present-day counties. Today, Eagle Pass is the county seat of Maverick County. Maverick County was formed in 1856 from Kinney County, which had in turn been formed from Bexar County.

Campbell Poynor's first child, Elizabeth L. (or Ann or E.) Poynor, was born in present-day Maverick County, Texas about 1851.²⁴ About 1873 and probably in Tarrant County, she married Richard M. Allen (b. c.1851 in Tennessee).²⁵ They had at least two children: Fannie B. Allen (b. c.1874, the wife of L. H. Crawford, and Rosa L. Allen (b. c.1877), the wife of Walter H. Vance. Elizabeth (Poynor) Allen was alive on June 10, 1880 when the census taker visited their home, but she was dead before August, 18, 1883, when her mother died. She left her husband a widower with children. A 1914 heirship document refers to her as Lizzie E. Poynor. It lists only Fannie and Rosa as her surviving children.²⁶ No readable gravestone for Elizabeth or Richard now exists in any northeast Tarrant County cemetery, nor does one for either of the two daughters under their married names.²⁷

John Lafayette Poynor, Campbell Poynor's second child, was born in present-day Maverick Co., Texas on November, 22, 1852.²⁸ He was probably named for his father's brother, Lafayette Poynor. He married Laura Emma Sansom, daughter of Rev. Samuel D. Sansom, in Tarrant County, Texas on May 11, 1876.²⁹ On November 5, 1887, J. L. Poynor was reported as having recently been received "by Experience" into membership of the Fort Worth District Conference of the Methodist Church.³⁰ Mrs. Emma Poynor died in Parker County in 1894.³¹ John L. Poynor died on August 1, 1929, and is buried in an unmarked grave in North Fort Worth's Oakwood Cemetery. A notation in the sexton's record of the burial says "Terrell, Texas."³²

The marriage records of the older two Poynor children were almost certainly recorded in the county records of Tarrant County, Texas. All the marriage records and deed records of Tarrant County were lost in a disastrous Court House fire in Fort Worth on March 29, 1876.

Using data derived from the census and from statements he made in depositions, it appears that Campbell and Eliza Poynor probably moved from Texas back to Carroll County, Arkansas in late 1852 or 1853.³³ The next two of the Poynor children were born in Carrollton Township, Carroll County, Arkansas. They were Mary (H. or A. or F.) Poynor, born about 1855, and Susan A. Poynor, born about 1858. Both were alive with their father's family in the 1860 census enumeration,³⁴ but were missing from the family (and probably dead) during the next enumeration in 1870.³⁵ Neither of the young ladies was included in the 1914 document listing the heirs of their mother at the time of her death in August, 1883.³⁶ No readable headstones exist for either of them in northeast Tarrant County.³⁷

The fifth Poynor child, Queen Victoria Poynor, was born in Carrollton Township, Carroll County, Arkansas on December 27, 1859.³⁸ She married Hugh L. W. Collier (1844-1935) in Tarrant County, Texas on May 21, 1885.³⁹ Collier had served in the Confederate Army as a corporal in Company D, 14th Texas Infantry.⁴⁰ Queen V. Collier died in Fort Worth on June 6, 1924,⁴¹ and was buried in Oakwood Cemetery in North Fort Worth, in the section reserved for Confederate soldiers and their wives.⁴²

On June 29, 1860, Campbell and Eliza Poynor were living in Carrollton Township in Carroll County, Arkansas. Campbell was listed as a 35-year-old native of Tennessee, who owned $300 in real estate and $600 in personal property. He was a farmer. His wife, Eliza R., was twenty-six. Their first two children, Elizabeth Ann (9) and John Lafayette (7), are shown as natives of Texas. Both had attended school within the year. By 1860, they had three other children: Mary [H. or A.?] (5), Susan A. (2), and Victoria (6/12). According to this census, both the elder Poy nors could read and write.⁴³

Campbell Poy nor's sixth child, Arizona E. Poy nor, was born in Carrollton Township, Carroll County, Arkansas on May 14, 1862.⁴⁴ She married J. B. Winkler in Tarrant County, Texas on September 28, 1882.⁴⁵ On November 29, 1946, she died and was buried in Oakwood Cemetery in Fort Worth.⁴⁶

In his pension application papers for his Mexican War service, Campbell Poy nor wrote that he served as a conscript in the "War of 1861-1865," although he did not mention on which side he fought or from which state he served. At least one of his brothers was an officer in the Confederate service, and several other close family members served in Arkansas regiments.⁴⁷ On June 26, 1903, Poy nor executed an affidavit in which he swore that he "...was never in the military or naval service of the United States before Sep. 28, 1847 or Since Sept. 30, 1848."⁴⁸ This would suggest that his "conscript" service was in the Confederate army. No record of this service has been found, despite extensive searching under a wide number of variant spellings for the Poy nor name.⁴⁹ He did not receive a pension from the State of Texas for Confederate service.⁵⁰

The public records in the Court House in Carroll County, Arkansas were destroyed in 1870. Therefore, most traces of Campbell Poynor's time there have been lost.⁵¹

In 1865, the Poy nors left Carroll County, Arkansas and moved to Texas. In his pension application papers which he filed in the 1880's, Campbell Poynor said he had lived at various times in Bosque, Tarrant, and Johnson Counties.⁵² When the State Archives microfilmed the old tax lists for Texas counties before 1900, the tax rolls for Bosque County were not filmed and may not now be consulted. Poynor does not appear in the Johnson County rolls for 1865 or 1866. He does not appear in the 1865 Tarrant County rolls. The rolls for 1866 are so faded and poorly microfilmed that, without consulting the original rolls, we cannot tell positively if he appears there or not. Beginning in 1867, the rolls are quite legible and well-preserved.

Campbell "Poiner" appears in the 1867 tax list for Tarrant County. He owned three horses valued at $150, eight cows valued at $100, and $69 in personal property. He did not yet own any land. On a total estate valued at $319, he paid forty-seven cents in state ad valorem tax, one dollar in state poll tax, and seventy-five cents in county tax.⁵³

The seventh Poynor child, Mattie Jane Poynor, was born in Tarrant County, Texas on December 27, 1867.⁵⁴ She married D. S.

Gray in Tarrant County on December 13, 1885.⁵⁵ After Mr. Gray's death, she was remarried to Benjamin Franklin May in Tarrant County on October 7, 1894.⁵⁶ She had children in both marriages. Mattie died before husband, and probably lies buried beside him in an unmarked grave in Bedford Cemetery. Ben F. May died at his home at 1903 Gould Avenue in Fort Worth on March 22, 1946.⁵⁷ His grave is also unmarked.

When the tax appraiser arrived at the Poyner's in 1868, he found that their fortunes had increased to six horses worth $225, fifteen cows worth $124, and $65 in personal property.⁵⁸ In 1869, Poyner had the same number of horses but their worth had increased to $250. His sixteen cows were worth $91, and he owned $71 in personal property.⁵⁹ In 1870, he owned seven horses worth $250, eighteen cows worth $100, and $70 in personal property.⁶⁰

On September 7, 1870, "C. Poyner" and his family are listed in the census of Tarrant County, Texas, in Precinct 1. He is listed as a 45-year-old farmer who owned no real estate but had $600 in personal property. Eliza R. was thirty-six. The children at home included Elizabeth (19), John L. (17), Queen V. (10), Arizonia (8), and Mattie (2). The last child, Mattie, was born in Texas. Arizonia had been born in Arkansas before they made the move to Texas. John, Queen, and Arizonia had attended school within the year.⁶¹

By the time the tax assessor arrived in 1871, Campbell Poyner had made his first land purchase in Tarrant County. It was eighty-one acres out of the W. O. Yantis survey at Bedford.⁶² The deed to the property was destroyed in the 1876 Tarrant County Court House fire and was never re-recorded. All the land Poynor later purchased in Tarrant County was also in present-day Bedford.

The eighth Poynor child, Eliza C. "Cammie" Poynor, was born in Tarrant County, Texas on December 1, 1871.⁶³ She married Sam H. Eagleton in Tarrant County, Texas on July 7, 1892.⁶⁴ She died at her home at 2705 W. 25th Street in Fort Worth on May 10, 1924, and was buried in Oakwood Cemetery in Fort Worth. Mr. Eagleton died on May 15, 1944, and was buried beside her.⁶⁵ In the 1914 heirship document, she is referred to as Cammi E. Poynor.

In the Tarrant County tax rolls for 1872, Poynor's eighty-one acres of land were valued at $250. He also had five horses worth $150, eight cows worth $40, and $10 in miscellaneous property.⁶⁶ In 1873, his tax assessment was basically unchanged, except that he reported owning 82 acres of land and did not report owning any miscellaneous personal property.⁶⁷ In 1874, he reported owning eighty acres of land worth $320, but only one horse worth $30 and two cows worth $10.⁶⁸

Campbell Poynor was a member of the Grand Prairie Masonic Lodge, #455, which was established on July 13, 1875, at Zion Methodist Church [in Zion, later known as Smithfield] in present-day North Richland Hills, in northeast Tarrant County, Texas. At the meeting of the lodge held on December 11, 1875, Campbell Poynor was serving as Senior Warden. He seems to have been an active member in good standing from the founding of the lodge until his death in 1908.⁶⁹

By 1875, the Poynors' horse herd had increased to four head worth $175, and they owned four cows worth $25. He reported that he owned 81-1/2 acres of the Yantis survey worth $490.⁷⁰ By 1876, his real estate had devalued to $405, but his horse herd had increased by one.⁷¹

Beginning in 1877, the tax assessors added several new categories in the tax rolls. In that year, Poynor still owned 81-1/2 acres of the Yantis survey, but its value had increased to $648. He owned one wagon worth $40, $5 in miscellaneous tools, five horses worth $175, eight cows worth $56, one dog...with no valuation placed on it.., four hogs worth $12, and $100 in miscellaneous property. On this total estate valued at $1036, he paid $15.93 in combined state and county taxes.⁷²

In 1878, Poynor's real estate had devalued to $500, and his wagon was only worth $30. He had $12 in tools, six horses worth $140, seven cows worth $50, fourteen hogs worth $15, and $40 in miscellaneous property...a sizable decline in net worth in the past year.⁷³

On June 23, 1880 the census taker visited Campbell Poynor's home in Precinct 3 of Tarrant County, Texas. He listed Campbell as a 55-year-old farmer and a native of Tennessee. Campbell told the census taker both his parents were natives of Virginia. Eliza "B."

Poynor told the census taker that she and both her parents were native Tennesseans. The census taker noted that Eliza was suffering from bronchitis. The children living at home included Queen V. (20), Arazona (18), Mattie J. (12), and Eliza C. (8). Arazona, Mattie, and Eliza had attended school within the year. In 1880 the Poynors had a farm laborer named Lewis C. King living with them. He was a forty-five-year-old native of Tennessee.⁷⁴

The Tarrant County tax assessor in 1880 found the Poynors owning three horses, twenty-two cows, and five hogs, in addition to the 81-1/2 acres of land. Their total estate was valued in 1880 at $757.00.⁷⁵ In 1881, their horse herd had increased to four, and their cattle had increased to twenty-six. Poynor paid a total of $38.99 in taxes for 1881.⁷⁶

In 1882, he was assessed with one wagon worth $60, tools and implements worth $10, six horses worth a total of $150, fifteen cattle worth $120, fifteen hogs worth one dollar each, and $15 worth of miscellaneous personal property.⁷⁷ By the time the assessor arrived in 1883, Poynor had added six acres of the W. W. Smith survey, worth five dollars per acre, to his farm. He may have sold some of his livestock to finance the land purchase, because in that year he owned only four horses, six cows, and six hogs.⁷⁸

Eliza R. Poynor (her gravestone very clearly says "Elizer") died at Bedford on August 18, 1883. She was buried in Smithfield Cemetery,⁷⁹ just a few yards from the Smithfield Methodist Church and the Grand Prairie Lodge where Campbell Poynor had attended lodge meetings since 1876. Membership in the Methodist Church, probably with the Smithfield congregation, probably explains her burial there several miles from their Bedford home. Many of their nearby Methodist neighbors also lie buried at Smithfield.

By 1884, Poynor's eighty-one acres of the Y. O. Yantis survey had increased in value to $700, and his six acres of the Smith survey had increased to $35 in value. During the past year, his horse herd had increased to five, his cattle had increased to seventeen, and his hogs had increased to eleven.⁸⁰

On January 28, 1884, Poynor purchased thirty acres of the James M. Matson survey from J. F. Cooper of Tarrant County. It was a rectangle, 356.75 varas east-west by 475 varas north-south. The thirty-acre tract's northwest corner was 118 varas east of the Matson survey's northwest corner. For it, Poynor gave $100 in cash and a note for $200 at 12% interest.⁸¹ This was his last land purchase, and it gave him the most acreage he ever owned in his lifetime.

When the tax assessor arrived in 1885, the Matson survey land was shown as worth five dollars per acre. Again, he may have sold or traded livestock to buy acreage, since by that time he had only four horses, four cows, and no hogs.⁸² Especially in a place like Bedford, where real estate is now at such a premium, it is striking to realize that only a little over a century ago an acre of land and a cow were worth about the same amount. A year later in 1886, the horses had decreased to three (worth an average of $50 each), the cows had increased to five (worth an average of $7 each), and he again had six hogs, worth one dollar each.⁸³

Throughout the 1880's, Poynor had only one wagon for use on his farm, though it may not have been the same one during all those years. In 1881 and 1882, it was valued at $60. In 1883, it was valued at $15, in 1884-$40, in 1885-$35, in 1886-$15, in 1887-$20, in 1888 and 1889-$10. By 1890, he reported its worth as only $5.⁸⁴

During the last years of the 1880's, he always kept a few horses and cows, but reported having no hogs in 1887, 1888, or 1889.⁸⁵

On January 31, 1887, Campbell Poynor began the process for getting a pension based upon his service in the Mexican War. This was in response to an act of Congress passed on January 29, 1887. His pension application file consists of several different documents. Like many others, he was helped with his application by Alexander M. Kenady of Washington, D. C., who was then serving as the Secretary of the National Association of Veterans of the Mexican War. Two acquaintances in Tarrant County, S. Terry (age 66) and C. McBride (age 55) certified his good character and said they had known him for twenty years. His application, numbered 5069, was filed on February 11, 1887, was approved, and he was issued Pension Certificate no. 3477.⁸⁶

The Poy nors were active and dedicated members of the Methodist Church. On February 23, 1889, Campbell Poynor was named to fill a vacancy in the Board of Trustees at the Quarterly Conference of the Smithfield Charge, Dallas District, North Texas Conference, meeting at Keller, Texas.⁸⁷

On March 1, 1889, as one of the three trustees of Oak Grove Methodist Church in Bedford, Campbell Poynor, along with Harvey R. Sparger (1833-1914), and Marcus D. Arthur (1834-1893), sold a two-acre lot of land in Bedford to William Hurst.⁸⁸ This was the tract on which the older Sansom's Chapel Methodist Church had stood before the building was moved in 1886 to the newer Oak Grove Methodist Church site. This plot is exactly at the intersection of present-day Bedford Road and the Airport Freeway in Bedford, on the south side of the freeway and the east side of Bedford Road.⁸⁹ William Hurst owned property adjacent to it at that time. He is the same William Letchworth Hurst for whom the city of Hurst, Texas was named.

By 1890, during the year when he reached his sixty-fifth birthday, Poynor's farming was becoming more and more limited, but he had not yet sold any of his real estate. His single wagon was worth only $5. He owned only two horses worth $30 each, ten cows worth an average of $5 each, four hogs worth an average of $1.25 each, personal property worth $45, and $5 worth of farming implements.⁹⁰

On December 2, 1893, Campbell Poynor made an affidavit to the Pension Bureau concerning his health. He certified that:

"...he suffers with a back trouble and has suffered with same for 2 years or more and that he suffers with Rheumatism so that at times he is not able to go about or do anything. That he is physically worn out and totaly disabled for manual labor..."

In the same affidavit, R. B. Zachary, M.D. certified:

"...That he has frequently prescribed for Campbell Poynor during the last 3 years for a Rheumatic affection involving the muscles of the back. And that he knows that he is often disabled for weeks when he is wholly unable to perform the lightest manual labor. Having been intimately acquainted with the above named Campbell Poynor for 15 years, during which period he has been his family Physician and that he knows that he is a man who would not complain unnecessarily and that this is his own statement written by H. E. Valentine."

Also in the affidavit of December 2, 1893, two Bedford neighbors, Wesley Bryant Simmons (1854-1925) and J. W. May, gave statements about Poynor's financial condition in which they said:

"...that they are well acquainted with Campbell Poynor and that they know of their own knowledge that he has no income except what he gets from his farm which is verry poor and worn land and his pension of $8.00 pr month that he has verry little personal property, that his land is worth six or seven hundred dollars and they do not believe that his small income from his farm which does not amt. to more than $7s and his pension of $8 pr month is sifficient to provide him the necessarys of life..."

Campbell Poynor was enrolled as a pensioner by Certificate No. 3477 at the rate of $12 per month.⁹¹

In the 1895 tax rolls for Tarrant County, Campbell Poynor is shown as the owner of eighty acres of the W. O. Yantis survey #1752 (worth $600), six acres of the W. Smith survey #1489 (worth $35), and thirty acres of the James Matson survey #1080 (worth $150). He owned one wagon worth $5, two horses worth $25 each, eight cows worth a total of $50, and $5 in miscellaneous property.⁹²

In December, 1895, a mapmaker and real estate entrepreneur named Sam Street came to Tarrant County and drew a map of the entire county, indicating on it the railroads and wagon roads of the time, the streams, and the outlines and names of the original surveys. In the rural areas, he also listed most of the homeowners and showed the locations of their homes. C. Poynor's home is shown in modern-day Bedford, in the southeast corner of the W. O. Yantis survey.⁹³ It sat just west of present-day Central Drive, at about the southeast corner of the park now included in the football stadium property north of Pipeline Road and south of the Airport Freeway.

When the census taker visited Bedford on June 3, 1900, he found Campbell Poynor living with the family of his married son, John L. Poynor. J. L. Poynor was a widower. Campbell's occupation is listed as "boarder." The family just before them in the census was that of Ben F. May and his wife, Poynor's daughter, Mattie.⁹⁴

When the tax man arrived in 1900, he found Poynor still owning all his acreage in the Matson, Yantis, and Smith surveys. He also had one horse worth $35, thirteen cows worth a total of $160, and one wagon worth $35.⁹⁵

On January 25, 1902, Campbell Poynor answered a questionnaire sent to him by the Bureau of Pensions in Washington. He completed it in his own handwriting, making what is probably the only extant record of his marriage date and his wife's maiden name. He also listed the names and birthdates of his five living children. At the time his address was Bedford, Tarrant County.⁹⁶

On November 12, 1902, John Barr (1853-1941) and F. M. May made an affidavit stating that they had known and lived near Poynor for twenty-five years. They further said they knew he was disabled and that his total income was only eleven or twelve dollars per month, including his $8-per-month pension. They estimated his real estate and personal property to be worth a total of $800 to $900. At the same time, Poynor himself swore that he owned one hundred sixteen acres of land, "two pony horses and a few head of cattle..."⁹⁷

The deed in which Campbell Poynor sold his thirty-acre tract of the James Matson survey is not recorded in the deed records of Tarrant County, Texas. In the 1904 tax rolls, he still owned his property in all three surveys...Yantis, Matson, and Smith.⁹⁸

On May 7, 1906, Campbell Poynor sold his 81.5-acre tract in the W. O Yantis survey and his six-acre tract in the W. W. Smith survey to O. S. Lattimore.⁹⁹ It is likely that he then left northeast Tarrant County and lived with one or more of his children.

On February 21, 1907, he made application for increased benefits under the new Act of February 6, 1907, granting pension payments at the rate of twenty dollars per month to pensioners who were over seventy-five years of age. One of the witnesses to his application was his son-in-law, Sam H. Eagleton, who also gave his address as "near Burleson."¹⁰⁰ This probably explains Campbell Poynor's moving from Tarrant County to Johnson County.

Campbell Poynor died on January 19 or 20, 1908, and was buried in Section 62 near the southwestern corner of Oakwood Cemetery in North Fort Worth. The records of the North Fort Worth Undertaking Company disclose that he died at Burleson, Johnson County, on January 19. His gravestone records his death date as January 20,¹⁰¹ as does an affidavit made by J. L. Davenport, Commissioner of Pensions at Knoxville, when he notified the Bureau of Pensions to discontinue payments to Poynor.¹⁰²

The Fort Worth Undertaking Company's records show that he was buried at Oakwood on January 20. The microfilm of the records is impossible to read in places, but the only services purchased by the family were the use of the hearse and one carriage, which together cost $20. There was also a charge of $11.50 for digging the grave.¹⁰³ No death certificate for Campbell Poynor was filed in the Tarrant County Clerk's office or in the Texas Department of Health offices, in spite of a 1903 Texas law which required it. It was not until the 1930's that anything near universal compliance was attained in Tarrant County.

No obituary appeared for him in either the Fort Worth Star-Telegram or the Fort Worth Record, both of which were publishing daily issues at the time. His grave is marked with a large upright marble headstone, which includes the masonic emblem above the inscription.

On September 24, 1908, the Department of the Interior's Bureau of Pensions issued a Drop Order and Report, stopping payments to Poynor. He was last paid $20 for the month ending November 4, 1907.¹⁰⁴

At this time we have not discovered a photograph of Campbell Poynor or his wife, Eliza Poynor. We have a group photograph taken of the Oak Grove Methodist Church about 1890 in which he probably appears, but our identifications of the people in it are incomplete. There are a few unidentified men in the photo who are old enough to be Campbell Poynor.

At least six generations of Campbell Poynor's family have now lived in northeast Tarrant County. He also has many descendants in other parts of Texas and in other states. A Texas Historical Marker placed at his grave will be a fitting tribute to his importance as a Texas soldier and pioneer.

1. United States, National Archives, Veterans Administration, "Mexican War Pension Files," and "Mexican War Bounty Land Files" of Campbell Poynor. No other man named Campbell Poynor, nor anyone with a variant name, served in the Mexican War from any other state. Both files contain a number of documents made at several different dates. Because of the lengthy amount of time needed and comparatively high cost of obtaining copies from the General Services Administration, complete copies of both files are appended to this paper. There was an older Poynor who was a close relative...probably Campbell's brother or his father's brother, George G. Poynor, who told the 1860 census taker in Madison County, Arkansas that he was 46 years old (hence born about 1814) and was born in Georgia. A later reference to this G. G. Poynor in Goodspeed's History... says he was born in Tennessee, lived for a time in Carroll County, and moved to Madison County where he died in 1879. In Carroll County in 1860, there was a Jesse Poynor, aged 51 and a native of Georgia; an L. F. Poynor, aged 30 and a native of Illinois, and a Matthew Poynor, aged 22 and a native of Tennessee.
